

IRISH FIRED IN "MOLLY ENTANGLED" AMUSES STAR.

In filming "Molly Entangled," the latest Paramount production starring Vivian Martin, the company had the time of their lives—and it is safe to say that there was more brogue and more Irish anecdotes scattered around the staid old studio than ever

was the following: she said the quarrel between the two families reminded her of the two Irishmen who lived side by side. One owned a peach tree which had a branch growing over into the neighbor's yard. The owner accused his neighbor of stealing the peaches but was sent scuttling back to his own yard by a well directed shower of "Irish confetti" from the what we mean. The northern part of Ireland was colonized hundreds of years ago by settlers from Scotland. They have preserved to a great degree the habits and qualities of their ancestors. Even the names have survived. McGovern, McCoy and McDermott reveal their origin in their prefixes. A McCormack is of a different stock from that of an O'Connor.

The Scotch are essentially a race of ambitious toilers. They are notably a nation of machinists. Nearly every marine engine room on the ocean contains a Scotchman.

What wonder, then, that the north of Ireland is dotted with wealthy manufacturing towns? And what wonder that the south of Ireland wants to help divide the income?

The south of Ireland contains the same stock that came there two thousand years ago, reinforced a little, perhaps, by the British, or Celtic races who fled thither when the Scandinavians and German Saxons made their conquests. They have preserved till today too much of the conditions that existed then. The northerners decided to do otherwise.

The Irish population is as complex as the Irish question. Without criticizing the qualities of the southerners, one of which—an intense love of freedom—shows how high they can rise, we must concede that they have not made their end of the island a counterpart of the north in industry or wealth, although they have exactly the same political privileges, and more than the same political representation as any other citizens of the British Empire. Which are facts to be borne in mind when we undertake to determine offhand all the Irish problems that we have not yet begun to understand.

before in its existence. The bitter feud between the Barrys and the O'Maras was a continual source of amusement to the fun-loving actors. Harrison Ford, Miss Martin's leading man, and the little star herself kept the company in gales of laughter. One of Miss Martin's stories neighbor. Vowing to get even, that night he climbed out onto the branch and sawed it completely off, falling and breaking both legs in the process. "Molly Entangled," a typical Irish production is to appear at the Liberty Theatre on next Wednesday, May 21.

CHEAP FOOD WILL COME NO MORE.

City bosses who are waiting for 25-cent eggs and 30-cent butter and 40-cent corn and 25-cent bacon, so that they can cut wages to the pre-war level, are due for a long, long wait.

Do you know what kept food prices low in this country for 50 years?

It was the farmer with the strong back and the weak head.

What gave townsmen 5-cent a quart milk for 20 years?

Hordes of farmers, not dairymen, who were willing to bury their nose in the flank of a cow for five hours before the rest of the world yawned.

And bury said nose for a bare living.

What gave us 25-cent corn?

A horde of farmers, and their sons, and often their daughters, who were willing to work from dawn to dusk in the fields, regardless of what their harvest might bring.

The farmers, until recently, considered it their job to raise all the foodstuffs they could, whether they broke even or not was quite immaterial, so long as their fields bore as vigorously as did those of their neighbors!

In short, it was a countryside pride to work your head off because your neighbor did, and to leave the question of your reward to the city buyers, and commission men, and packers.

Never again, for the American farmer.

If the city worker has woken up, and the returning soldier seeks the way to independence, the American farmer has been twice stirred.

The war taught him that, instead of merely being a born slave, destined to sweat for sweat's sake, he was the backbone of the nation.

And we can discover no reason why the farmer shouldn't receive decent compensation.

No reason why he, alone of the world's workers, should do 16 hours a day with Sundays besides.

No reason why his investment and labor should not receive the due percentage of profit that every other business and effort demands and gets.

He'll get what is coming to him, or a number of us will not eat with the regularity that appears to be an established custom with the average eater.

HETEROGENEOUS.

We hear so much about the freedom of Ireland—or rather the lack of it—that it is well to be certain

HERO HANK DONS PLAY TOGS AGAIN

"Hank" Gowdy the first big league ball player to quit the game and get into the war, is back in play togs again. Regardless of how well he can play this year, Boston Brave fans welcomed their hero of former world series play in a way befitting his plunge at the very outbreak of war to help Uncle Sam win "Hank" enlisted with the Rainbow dough boys

To Range Horse Raisers

Special Horse Train Leaves Crane, Oregon on June 8

Fair prices are expected, and we would like the support of the Eastern and Central Oregon horse raisers in order to establish a good market for the range horses.

We have had Billy Walker in the southeastern states for the past several weeks and will keep him among the buyers during the month of May. He has the promise for many good buyers for our first sale.

As horses will be mostly purchased by southern buyers, would advise shipping fillies and mares aged from four to six, weighing from 1050 to 1300 lbs.

As I have had several years experience and association with southern buyers, I believe I have an opportunity to make some of the best possible sales for Harney County horse raisers for the present season. Will come to your ranches and cut your horses to best selling sort. Phone, write or see me for further particulars, as all consignments should be in by June 1 on account of ordering the necessary cars.
