A. K. Richardson, A. A. Traugott, Capt. A. W. Gowan and Grover Jameson all arrived home Monday from Portland where they had been with the road delegation before the State Highway Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swain and their little son took their departure this morning for Ashland where they go to visit with Mrs. Swain's parents for a time. They will stop en route at Dallas to see relatives.

The citizens of this city have sorely put out for the past few days by the annoyance of dust which was hauled in on the main street. Marshal McDonald, as street commissioner, started some improvements in that direction a couple of weeks ago and during his absence at the road meeting in Portland the material hauled in was not up to standard, as it lacked very much of being gravel. The business men are kept busy sweeping it out of their places back into the street and the windy weather has not allowed it to remain long in one place.

BENEFICIENT CROWS.

And now they are attempting to prove that the crow is not so black as his feathery coat—that he is in fact a helper toward the cultivation of the fields. We are told that the crow follows the plow or cultivator so that he may feed upon the numerous larvae, such as cutworms, wireworms and white grubs, which the turning of the soil brings to light. If a flock of crows is observed returning again and again to a particular field it is almost certain that the field is infested with noxious larvae. The crow is the only agency which will destroy cutworms and white-grubs.

It is also said that crows destroy quantities of mice and young rabbits, and that their activities among sprouting corn and in the poultry yard have been greatly exaggerated.

We never expected to see the crow upheld as an assistant to the farmer. And we hope that he is preparing to live up to this new and desirable reputation.

What One Mother Does

Mrs. P. Bennett, 7 Wawayanda Place, Middletown, N. Y., writes: "I have given Foley's Honey and Tar to my little boy, and cannot recommend it too highly as I think it is the only medicine for coughs and colds." Fine for croup and whooping cough, as well as coughs and colds. Contains no opiates. Sold everywhere.

There seems to be some difference of opinion on the subject of buns. The hairdresser informs us that they are going out, and the barkeeper says there will be no more to be had after July 1st, but the baker says they are much in demand and will continue to be so.

Until the luxury tax came into effect, perhaps you did not know that candy and ice cream and chewing gum and face powder were luxuries. You will not, however, entertain any doubts on this head for some time to come.

"A DOLL'S HOUSE" WAS FAMOUS STAGE SUCCESS

Elsie Ferguson's Newest Photoplay Was Produced on London Stage in 1889.

For more than thirty years, the plays of Henrik Ibsen have held a dignified place on the stage in this country and abroad. One of the more notable of these dramatic creations of this Norwegian master dramatist was "A Doll's House," which was produced in London in 1889, and which served later in this country as the starring vehicles of the leading exponents of the Ibsen school of dramatic acting and thought. "A Doll's House" was pictured for Artercraft under the direction of Maurice Tourneur, and with Elsie Ferguson as the star. It will be displayed at the Liberty Theatre tomorrow night.

This is a realistic story of a doll wife, who, having no idea of her own, commits a forgery to save her husband's life, and who falls into the toils of an unscrupulous money-lender. When her husband learns of her folly he upbraids her, thereby shattering the dreams she had entertained—that in the event of exposure he would gallantly absolve her from, and assume all blame himself. His failure to do so proves a sad revelation to her, and even though the incriminating note is returned and the fear of disgrace obviated, she leaves him, sternly resolved to seek a new environment and to be a doll no longer.

The story of the photoplay is one of unusual dramatic power and affords Miss Ferguson and an excellent supporting cast with ample opportunities for the display of their talents.

As an example of the accuracy and attention to detail that prevail in the pictures directed by J. Stuart Blackton is the fact that all of the costumes, from that of the "extra" with umes, from that of the "extra" with the smallest part to the stars, are made especially for each picture. In "The Judgment House," a picturization of the novel by Sir Gilbert Parker, the time of the picture is during the Boer War. Despite the fact that this is approximately a "modern" picture, Commodore Blackton would not be satisfied with modern costumes. Fashion books of the period were hunted up and all the costumes copied from them. Violet Heming, the leading woman, wears several very stunning gowns which, however, when closely studied, resemble very little the frocks of today. "The Judgment House" is to appear at the Liberty Theatre tonight.

"The Judgment House," has been one of the most popular of Sir Gilbert Parker's novels, converted to photoplay form by J. Stuart Blackton, producer of "The Battle Cry of Peace" and others. This is the first of several productions by the famous director and author, released by Paramount, and is to be shown at the Liberty Theatre tonight.

Why the Essex Motor Car will be the sensation for the coming season

Every part and every detail of the Essex construction is of proved worth. It was designed and built by some of the foremost engineers of America, the same men whose genius produced the Super-Six. Many points of superiority in the Super-six which have proved themselves in years of service, have been incorporated into the Essex. The engine, only twenty-nine inches long, cast in one block with detachable head, readily develops more than fifty horsepower. Long life is assured by the ample proportions of the counterbalanced crank shaft, supported by three large bearings.
