

SILVER CREEK RANCH SOLD IN LAKEVIEW

Foster Place Becomes Property of Jones and Lane, Sheepmen.

A deal was closed early this week whereby the J. Foster ranch on Silver Creek became the property of Jones and Lane, sheepmen of the Lakeview section. This ranch is considered one of the best for sheep in Eastern Oregon. Most of the ranch equipment, as well as hay, etc., was included in the deal.

Charles M. Faulkner, of the Harney County Abstract Company, went to Lakeview Sunday, and closed arrangements for the buy. The consideration given was satisfactory to both parties. Mr. Faulkner returned Tuesday evening.

Silver Tongue Brings More Cash Than Rough

A threat is generally a warning, and the threatened party gets ready to resist. Between 1894 and 1914—twenty years—the Kaiser talked everlastingly on public occasions about his army, and what he could do with it. Finally, the world came to believe him—and look at him now.

Ed Carson announces what he will do to America. Messrs. Dunne and Ryan announce what they will do to England. But Japan never threatens to do anything to anybody. Least of all, to China. Japan has always talked about being kind to China. She is talking that way now.

And Japan is about the only world power at present that is not wearing a black eye. Japan is the only nation that professes a consistent affection for everybody—and gets more, without paying for it than anybody else. Most of us are Christians, talk rough, and get bloody noses. Japan is a heathen, talks kindly, and cashes in. Even when you want to be honest, you may as well talk kindly. It may save you a black eye, even if you don't want to pick a pocket. You may as well act like a Christian, since you say you are one. Politeness pays, even when you are a heathen; ask Japan—she knows.

Naughty Bathing Suits Alarm

This is the time of year when reformers start worrying about bathing suits. Other people's bathing suits, as far as we know, reformers don't care very much themselves. They haven't time. While you are swimming you can't handle an opera-glass, and without one you can't investigate the natatory indiscretions of your starnallan environment.

The reformers and the anti-reformers now offer their pleadings for adjudications. "Girls must wear stockings with bathing suits," say the reformers. "They don't need to," say the anti's; "why should they?" "Because the sight of the feminine leg exposed inflames the masculine mind to a passion of lecherous frenzy. That's why," say the reformers.

"How do you know that?" sing the anti's. "Do you ever feel that way?" "Heaven forbid," gasp the reformers; "our record is the white flower of a blameless life."

"Then how do you know how other people feel about it?" is the comeback; "did anybody tell you?" "We don't need to be told," sigh the reformers; "a voice deep down in our chaste souls tells us so."

"If your souls suggest prudent ideas like that to you," scream the anti's, "it's your souls that want prudish—not the beach styles. Take your souls to swimming, and give them a wash."

"And in the merry squabble goes on—in every town which has a bathing beach. A decision is rarely reached, because that would remove all the fun of arguing. If we talked to the point, instead of all around it, there would be no argument.

The foundation of all true ethical codes is elemental in its simplicity. It is summed up in the injunction, "Don't hurt any one. Don't hand any one a deal that you don't want handed you." It has been worded in many ways, and in one of its forms it is called "the golden rule."

On most bathing beaches, most parties composed of boys and girls—with or without stockings—seem not only unconscious of the existence of such a thing as sex. That is really what worries a certain type of reformer. It is not that sex is too much in evidence—rather that it is entirely in abeyance, until this type of reformer starts whining about it. Conduct is really more important than outfit, conscience than calves, duty than patellas. We'll all know this some day, but some of us take a long time to learn.

Daylight Saving Law Repeal Vetoed Twice

President Wilson has vetoed the repeal of the daylight saving law. This is probably the first time that any president has vetoed a bill for the second time. Speeding up factory production is given as his reason. Many local ranchers who are disregarding the daylight saving plan are finding they would be better paid were they to follow its provisions.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

High finance is an ancient number these days. Profiteering has backed it off the stage.

Perhaps in time, when the president and the senate have talked themselves to death over the league of nations, the rest of us will graciously condescend to forget all about the darned thing.

Listen, mother! Just dig out those old gingham dresses you have had stored away for so many years, and your daughter will be quite stylishly dressed. Silk is only a cheap fabric these days.

A "kick," it seems, has been discovered in root beer. But, then—

All through life,
In some way or other,
The world has just one
Kick after another.

We see by the papers, that Sergeant York is to establish a university for the instruction of the youth of Tennessee. We presume, of course he will shoot his ideas through the muzzle of a high powered rifle.

There was never a time in the history of this town when the readers of this paper were so interested in the advertising columns as they are today. With prices of everything up in the clouds, the average man or woman is keenly alive to the possibility of shaving off a cent or two in the price of necessities, and watches the ads like a hawk in the hope of finding some relief. The WISE merchant takes advantage of this and places his propositions before the people each week.

Soon it will be no longer the "high cost of living." It will be the agony of longing.

The fellow who keeps his house and grounds in good condition invariably uses the same care and taste in his business career. He may not realize it, but he is building himself a reputation which pushes him along in the game of life. It is a lesson which every person in this town might apply with the best of results, both for himself and the community.

Polliteness costs nothing; it is worth much. Take a stroll along one of our local streets and you will meet certain people who never fail of a courteous greeting. As you pass them by they leave in your mind a feeling of wholesome friendliness and brotherly love. You instinctively extend them the courtesy of a kind thought and a friendly greeting in return. The two of you are adding yet another ray of sunshine to the community life. And many little rays make a most pleasing whole. Try it yourself uninterruptedly for a week, and then analyze your feelings. You will be surprised at the result.

HAD SUFFERED FOR 30 YEARS HE SAID

Denver Man Declares Tanlac Has Helped Him More Than Any Other Medicine.

"Ever since I took that course of Tanlac I have felt better and stronger than I have in many years and it has done more for me than anything else I have ever taken," said J. W. Patterson, of 1359 Thirteenth street, Denver, Colo.

"For thirty years," he continued, "I suffered from catarrh of the nose and throat, and although I was operated on by a New York specialist at great expense I got only temporary relief. I just couldn't rest at all well at night and would get up in the mornings almost choking with mucus which nauseated me so I would often have to vomit. My stomach became affected so that everything I would eat soured and bloated me up with gas as tight as a drum. I was bilious, too, had terrible headaches and suffered something awful.

"I tried everything I could hear of but nothing helped me till I began taking Tanlac. It has relieved me of gas and every sign of indigestion and my stomach is in better condition than it has been in years. Tanlac has helped my catarrh wonderfully, it has calmed my nerves so I can get refreshing sleep at night and I am not troubled with that mucus or nausea any more."

Tanlac is sold in Burns by Reed Bros., and in Crane by Vale Trading Co.

Are you wearied of the monotony of a hum drum existence? With a good book you may visit the far places of the earth and delve into their histories and secrets. There is no land you may not explore, no depth of learning you may not plumb, no height you may not scale. The loves and passions of the lower earth life, or the higher and more serene enjoyments of the spiritual—all are ours for the taking.

It is easier to catch a chick than a full-grown rooster. Bolshevism should be sketched in its ineptency.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

The profiteer swats the consumer and the consumer takes it out on the fly. Some comparison, but true—dreadfully true.

Housewives, this is for you. You enjoy making the rounds of the local stores in your search for the most economical purchases to satisfy your needs and desires. In these days of high prices and stomach economy you keenly enjoy the privilege of slicing off a penny or two. Before you make your next rounds go carefully over the ads in this paper, make note of the different offerings, and lock them up personally. You may have the rare distinction of slicing a couple of cents—and that is going some these days. The ads turn the trick.

Must be that the high cost of living has invaded the sacred precincts of our national capitol. Else why this sudden and terrific blaze of protest from Washington?
