THAT PAYROLL DOLLAR

Burns can profit by the suggestion of those ads being published by the Associated Industries of Oregon, by making a local application of the advice given. It is all right to buy Oregon products, too, but we can make things work in our community in just the same manner.

First, though, we must get together and make team work count toward that end. One way to do it is to take an active part in the Commercial Club. We're not going to get anywhere unless we "toggeder stick." That's a foregone conclusion, and is shared by everybody concerned. No one staying in our own back yard and saying, "I don't approve of the way the club handled this proposition or that proposition." If it was wrong, your staying out of it, and doing nothing to try to rectify a mistake, is not going to help. If one is so radical, or another way not aggressive enough, whose fault is it? Who are you going to blame? Besides, if the bunch isn't capable of handling the affairs of the community it is up to you to do it right—if you know how—and if you have any suggestions or recommendations for the betterment of conditions, just trot 'em out.

There's more than one timber concern, there's a way we can get action on our irrigation project, there's a way to find out what the oil prospects are. We can develop our resources and bring capital to aid us if we'll just take the right method of getting at it.

The man who wants things to remain just as they are isn't worth a cent to the community; the fellow who has the opportunity and the means of advancing the prosperity of this community—and knows he is playing a safe game—and doesn't do it—is an obstructionist. He's standing in the way of his neighbor's and not doing justice to his own children. He should be made to "come through."

Let us not quit because of past mistakes. We have the future before us to look forward to—that's the goal. If we have been nasty in the past and "spilled the beans" just bear it in mind and try not to let it happen again—but keep right on hammering. Use more caution in future—not plunge in until we are sure of our ground.

We have the conservative pessimistic fellow to contend with in any undertaking in this life. Don't stop at his walls. We don't have to be careless and reckless, but use just common horse sense and we'll get there yet.

What do you imagine outside people think of this community, when a newspaper has to print an article like the above? Doesn't it make you proud to think of Portland, Bond, Prineville, Ontario, Vale and Lakeview people reading the story of our shortcomings?

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The milk of human kindness is a good thing—until it is curdled. keeps its weather eye on the dollar.

"The world is shot to pieces," shouts an exchange. Bird shot, or booze?

"America first" is an excellent slogan. But "America all of the Time" is a better one.

If the League of Nations kicks up this kind of a row in the beginning, what will it do when it is firmly in the saddle?

Untidiness is an injury to any business house. It has caused the loss of more customers than any other one thing in commercial life.

Most men are willing to be ruled by the majority, provided they constitute the majority.

Since America is a land of producers, it would be quite in order to produce a little harmony, sanity and cohesiveness. Pulling at both ends only widens the breach in the middle.

Somehow, these days we do not see so much of that familiar label, "Made in Germany."

There is one overpowering reason why country editors never go on strike. The "devil" might seize the office and get out a better sheet.

Shame on the fellow who remarked that "lots of mecs would be better husbands if they had better wives." That's the time he caught the wrong pig by the tail.

It matters not whether they are bolsheviks, or bolsheviks. The stinger should be withdrawn, the poison eliminated, and the car as kicked into a country more congenial to their insanity.

Any one of us can agree with Barnum that a fool is born every minute. But it takes nerve to catalog them in this town.

It may be true that blind pigs are in existence still, but it requires a wide open eye to safeguard their existence.

Presidential booms are still pipping, but few of them have reached the hatching stage.

After all, the worst punishment we could dole out to Mexico would be to let Japan in.

People will always say disagreeable things about you. But you can console yourself that only a part of them are true.

This business of prosecuting the profiteers seems to be degenerating into the old time worn situation—much gab and no nab.

Latest development in the food inquiry:

More fixing.

Much quizzing.

When a lady trips daintily down the street and exposes the latest pattern in hosiery, all men open their eyes—except the husband.

Do it today. Tomorrow you may be tired.

Carranza announces that he will retire from the presidency of Mexico in 1930. By that time, no doubt, he thinks there will be no presidency to hang onto.

"A friend in need clings to you for all you are worth," waits an exchange. And lets go of you as soon as you are worthless.

Some people are so short on brains they haven't sense enough to know it.

Time to begin saving your hundred dollar bills, William. Christmas is rushing right along again, and your girl will expect a trinket or two. That old stall you had last year about not having enough left out of your army pay ain't going to work this year.

Up to the hour of going to press, the high cost of living is still high.

"Some men just can't pay a bill without kicking," says an exchange. The kick, we presume, is in proportion to the size of the foot and the bill.

BRIGGS AUTO WOOD-SAW Attachment

It is possible, brothers, that we may worry through this Christmas with a little hide left, provided Old Santa Claus doesn't get the profit-eating bug, too.

It is said that Washington never lied. But, then, George was not a profiteer.

Production creates profits, of course. But who in heck gets them? We don't.

Oh, for a return to the good old days when we can stop into a store and buy a pair of shoes for $1.89.

Germany has become angelic in adversity, and has placed a ban on gambling. Let us pray!

The country is full of jobs, and apparently as full of people who don't want the jobs.

"Into each life some rain must fall." But in some it is a torrent, while in others nothing but a drizzle.

General Pershing has been honored by being made a full general for life. It is now proposed to spend $10,000 of government money to buy him a gold sword. The buck private has been honored by a few paltry dollars which were more than spent in hustling for jobs. If congress wants to do anything more for the soldiers, let them provide for the enlisted men first before blowing in $10,000 or any other sum on high officers. The buck private won the war.

A neighbor sagely remarks that "the average milk pail refuses to upset until it is full." But why upset when it is empty? Wasted energy is reprehensible these days.
