

NOVEL PHOTOPLAY IS DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS' "SAY, YOUNG FELLOW"

Athletic Areraft Star Seen as Newspaper Reporter Whose Optimism and Smile Help win Success

Douglas Fairbanks' new photoplay, "Say, Young Fellow," is described as being, perhaps, the most novel in which he ever has appeared.

In this photoplay Mr. Fairbanks portrays the role of a wide-awake, optimistic reporter employed in a small city, who wins distinction by interviewing a millionaire who not only has never been interviewed before, but who announced that he never would submit to reportorial inquisition.

His success with this assignment prompts his appreciative city editor to give him another and more difficult one. He sends his "young fellow" to a neighboring town, where he is to expose a fraudulent scheme in connection with a big factory.

DELIGHTFUL PHOTOPLAY

Admirers of "America's Sweetheart" Will Find Her Newest Vehicle One of Unusual Interest

The legion admirers of Mary Pickford will find her new Areraft photoplay, "How Could You, Jean?," one of the best vehicles in which she has been seen since "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." This is a delightful story which emphasizes the truth that even aristocratic young women, when impoverished, will find themselves equal to every requirement imposed upon them by their new environment, even though circumstances force them to earn their livelihood as ordinary house cooks.

WALLACE REID HAS FINE ROLE IN LATEST PICTURE

BASED ON STAGE SUCCESS

"Believe Me, Xantippe" Affords Paramount Star With Another Delightful Characterization

Appearing as a wealthy man-about town, Wallace Reid, who is starring in "Believe Me, Xantippe," has one of the best roles ever portrayed by him in his motion picture career.

The story of "Believe Me, Xantippe," which will be shown at the Liberty Theatre next Wednesday is based upon the play of the same name by Fredrick Ballard, which scored so decisively a hit in New York five years ago.

While the country is flooded with his photographs bearing the state's "Believe Me, Xantippe," he goes to Colorado and for eleven months remains in hiding on a ranch and is only discovered when he inadvertently replies to the question of a young woman, the daughter of a sheriff, whether he is hungry, with the statement, "Believe Me, Xantippe, I am."

villain," portrayed by Frank Campeau, said by Mr. Fairbanks to be perhaps the best portrayal of villain roles in the country. The reporter and this arch "villain" have several encounters which prove diverting to the audience as well as to those taking part therein in the picture.

When everything is at sixes and sevens, and the efforts of the young reporter to expose the fraud he finds rampant in the vicinity, are nearly frustrated, "the girl" appears and by her aid all is set right and the reporter wins his fight.

Aside from Mr. Campeau, Marjorie Daw, Edythe Chapman, James Neill and other capable screen artists appear in Mr. Fairbanks' support. The play was excellently produced and the photography, by Hugh McClung, is exceptionally fine.

The next Houdini episode comes Friday night, at the Liberty Theatre, as usual.

Traveled All Over the World

But Taniae Helped Him More Than Treatments Here, in Europe, and in South America.

The following statement, which was made a few days ago by H. L. Finniger, watch maker for the Nathan Dohramann & Company, living at 36 Plato St. San Francisco, Cal. is both interesting and remarkable.

"I have been treated for indigestion in France, Italy and Switzerland and in North and South America, in fact, all over the world, but Taniae is the only thing I have ever found to do me much good. Always after eating I would have such awful cramping pains in my stomach that I could hardly stand it. I had fallen off in weight until I was scarcely more than a frame of skin and bones and my nerves were so shattered that the least little thing would irritate and upset me. I could not sleep to do any good and would get up mornings more tired than on going to bed. My strength and energy had about all left me and many a time I felt like I would be compelled to give up entirely."

"Besides taking everything in the way of treatments and medicines, I have tried all the different kinds, of diet, also the rest cure, but never got more than a little passing relief. But the way a few bottles of Taniae has brought me out is more than I can understand. At the time I began taking this medicine I only weighed ninety-eight pounds, but I now balance the scales at one hundred and eighteen, making a gain of twenty pounds on five bottles of Taniae. After finishing my first bottle and about half of the second I could see I was getting better and from that time on my improvement was very fast. I can eat just anything now and never suffer a particle of distress afterwards. My nerves are in excellent condition so that I now get eight hours good sound sleep every night. I get up mornings now ready for a good breakfast and a full day's work. I usually put in an hour or two in the mornings working in my garden before going to the store, which would have been impossible for me before taking Taniae. My appetite is fine now, I relish everything I eat, and am enjoying better health than I have in years. Taniae has certainly been a life saver to me and it's a real pleasure for me to recommend it."

Taniae is sold in Burns by Reed Bros. and in Crane by Vale Trading Co.
