RESEEDING OF RANGE REPORTED SUCCESSFUL

Depleted Range Can Be Brought Back off Cattle in One Summer.

Reno Journal—Nevada, with its vast herds of livestock, is interested in anything that tends to improve the open range for feeding purposes. The Federal Forest Service has been conducting experiments for about two years with the idea of reseeding depleted range to cultivated forage plants. More than 500 testis have been made, aimed to cover all important conditions of soil, climate, exposure and elevation. About fifteen of the most important grasses and clovers have been included in the trials.

The best results have been obtained from timothy, smooth bromegrass, Kentucky blue grass, orchard grass and redtop in the order named. In this state the government reports timothy by far the best forage crop to use.

Results obtained also show that it does not pay to cultivate or plow the ground or otherwise prepare a seed bed similar to that resorted to in the usual farm practice.

The seed should be scattered lightly, timothy about eight pounds to the acre and lightly covered. It was found that a bunch of sheep driven over the ground two or three times served the purpose as well as a brush harrow and was much less expensive.

It was found that seeding in Nevada and other "intermountain" regions gave the best results when done in the late spring or early summer. The government experts insist that a depleted range can be brought back into service for cattle in one summer provided care is exercised in the scattering of the seed.

Sermonette for Today

A YEAR OF WHAT?

Another year is before us, with all its possibilities for good or ill, for success or failure.

As we cross the border of 1920 how many of us are giving even a passing thought to the character of the course we are to pursue in the next twelve months?

The commander who goes into battle with a definite plan of action has every opportunity for success, but he who plunges in at random courts disaster and defeat.

It is so in every sphere of life.

If we would enrich the world by our individual presence we must have a definite plan in view, and that plan must be adhered to in the face of all obstacles.

Accumulation of wealth is not the noblest aim in life. With prosperity we must have honor and integrity, peace and contentment, or the gold we amass becomes but dross which drags us down to the mire of degradation.

Honor and integrity go hand in hand, and peace and contentment are their twin children.

All are within the reach of every man and every woman who has the moral courage to begin the new year with a determination to do that which is right and just, regardless of what friend or foe may think or say.

It is easier to do right than wrong. In the one our conscience is clear and is a potent aid to us in the pursuance of an object. In the other we labor constantly in the shadow of fear, suspicious of mankind, and with a mind warped and distorted by the dread of exposure.

For each of us it will be a year replete with something—but what will that something be?

WHY CONGRESS DOESN'T

"Why doesn't congress do something?"

That is the threadbare inquiry we hear day by day from many tongues. It may refer to one thing, or it may concern another.

Why doesn't congress do something?

The answer is very simple, very tragic—because we do nothing ourselves.

We send a representative to congress and expect him to consider our wishes, to do our bidding.

Then we close our mouths and sit down and wait for him to "do something."

But what is he to do?

How is he to know what we want?

Does he ever hear from us?

While we are comfortably warming our chairs other interests—foreign to us—are getting busy with Mr. Congressman.

They are very agreeable to him, very enticing, and very tenacious—they never let go.

Their interests are kept before that congressman day by day, hour by hour. Ours are lying dormant in the chairs we are warming. The congressman seldom hears of them.

Senators and congressmen are adepts at passing the buck. So long as the buck is kept moving it does none of them any particular harm, but once it slows up it is liable to cause an explosion. And they don't like explosions. It is safer to start the buck on again.

Occasionally, between bucks, they do a little work, because they all want to go back to Washington again.

But that is all our fault. We put them there, and then we promptly pass the buck. We leave it to others to give them their instructions, to tell them what we want done.

We go to sleep at home, and the congressman, of course, follows our example and goes to sleep in Washington.

That's the reason congress doesn't "do something."

If each voter in the district would write an occasional letter to our congressman and acquaint him with the needs of the district, and our attitude on public questions, then the congressman would have no occasion for passing the buck.

He would have to buck up instead.

ONE RAY OF SUNSHINE

The militarists of Japan have suffered a decisive reverse, and have been snowed under by the peace party.

The latter favors adopting the American plan of not interfering in the internal affairs of Russia and China, other than to keep certain necessary railways open.

The militarists of Japan have long desired war with the United States, with a view to securing a strong foothold on the American west coast. The peace party opposed antagonizing us, and they have won.

This defeat of the militarists may lead to years and years of peace and good will between the two governments, and for a time at least it removes the imminent menace of a disastrous war with the brown men.

It should not, however, lead us into the error of neglecting our national defenses.

A juicy bone seldom remains long in the possession of a dog without teeth.
