

LONE FARMER AT NEW ROUND TABLE

H. J. WATERS.

H. J. Waters, of Kansas City, one of the greatest authorities of the mid-west on agriculture, is the only representative of the farmer at the new industrial round table which President Wilson called when the first group called to reach constructive agreements of any kind.

STRONG MESSAGE IN NEW YEAR SERMON

Ideal Time for Setting One's Course Anew; Family Altar Returning.

Rev. B. S. Hughes, pastor of the Presbyterian church gave an unusual strong message to his congregation in his sermon on the New Year last Sunday. The text was taken from Philippians 3, 13-14: "But this one thing I do forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

WORLD CORN KING

This farmer has won world corn honors. His name is Louis M. Scott and he lives at Fairmont, Minn., on the southern edge of the North Star State. Mr. Scott's corn, which was of the white dent variety, took the grand prize at the recent International Stock and Grain Show at Chicago.

community and its hopes and aspirations for the coming year.

Following the regular order of service, a responsive reading from the Psalter was then read, and the pastor gave the scripture reading from which the above text was taken.

In interpreting his text, Rev. Hughes pointed out how the beginning of the New Year was an ideal time for setting one's course anew, "It is the beginning of new things," said the pastor, "when the future is before us. Paul's message to his son Timothy, was in the language of modern times, 'Keep your eye on Jesus, and the high aspiration to be like the Christ.' The year will demand the story of the Gospel, and the calling of the church up to the firing line.

"A growing tendency is noted in all the current religious publications to get back to the good old fashion of family prayer, where the children learn of the word of God from the lips of the mother or father of the family. The family altar is coming back into American homes, and the Church must press on. 'The door of

SPIRITUALISM CHIEF TOPIC IN U. S. NOW

America is very much interested in psychic discussions and experiments at present. Ever since the war this subject has been the chief topic and interest. As a result, Sir Oliver Lodge of England, admitted to be one of the greatest authorities, is to tour the United States lecturing in collegiate and general courses. In the language of the people it is "Spiritualism," but with the more intellectual psychic taking the place of the old-time "medium" explaining all from a purely scientific standpoint.

The New Year is open—behold I set before you Jesus Christ, the Savior of man—He turns the New Leaf.

"He came to my desk with a quivering lip— The lesson was done, "Dear teacher, have you a new leaf?" he said, "I have spoiled this one." I took the leaf all soiled and blotted, and gave him a new one, all unspotted, And into his sad eyes smiled— "Do better, now, my child."

"I went to the throne with a quivering soul— The old year was done, "Dear Father, hast thou a new leaf for me? I said, "I have spoiled this one." He took the old leaf so stained and blotted, and gave me a new one, all unspotted, And into my sad heart smiled— "Do better, now, my child."

Rev. Harold Humbert, secretary of the Sunday School association of the state, will occupy the pulpit at the Presbyterian church tomorrow morning at 11, and in the evening at 7:30. Rev. Humbert is an excellent singer and speaker who visited Burns last spring. His words are an inspiration to all his hearers, as his magnetic personality makes them alive with interest. Rev. Humbert will hold services every evening the coming week.

Fighting for Rural Folks

Congressman Dan R. Anthony, Kansas, is fighting tooth and nail in the House of Representatives for the passage of his print paper bill which would restrict large city dailies to 24 pages daily and which would eliminate the possibilities of suspension of from 2500 to 5000 small rural papers in the United States. The big papers with unlimited resources hog the print paper market, with the result that smaller dailies, tri, semi and weekly papers, are every day finding it more difficult to get print paper.

Money comes easy, goes easier, and we're d—d uneasy when we have n't got it.

If all the booze in the country could be frozen into blocks—well, you know, there is no law against selling ice.

America is sick—prostrate with a terrible disease—the uncontrollable lust for squandering money.

They tell us hell is paved with good intentions. But not so. 'Tis only subterfuge that gets that far.

In order to keep warm during the coal strike many people had to resort to the use of fuel oil. The result, of course, was just as expected. The oil profiteers kicked the price up something like 200 per cent. And profiteering on the spoils of calamity is about the limit of human degradation.

A trapper by the name of Bulkin died at Crane the fore part of the week. It is reported the cause of his death was from drinking wood alcohol.

Just to liven things up a bit, our crop of distinguished presidential possibilities might come out with some clear cut and plain English declarations of their principles—if they have any of their own. Fishing with pussyfoot bait will not catch many suckers at this time.

If it were true that only the good die young, hell would soon be out of business for lack of patronage.

Pull a mite of a smile occasionally. It will not crack your face, nor yet dampen the ardor of your sunny disposition.

Be good to the new year, and it may be the same to you.

WHEN a Farmer writes a letter

What do you expect? That it will be on a blank sheet of soiled paper that has been rusting on a dusty shelf for months?

Not a bit of it.

The farmer's stationery is as important as his automobile. He is a business man, and he does business in a business like manner. He may raise hay, but you never find it sticking out of his boots.

We print letter heads, envelopes, bill heads, business cards, etc., for farmers. No chance for a correspondent to make a mistake in the name, or in the address, when it is plainly printed on the letter head and envelope. No chance for purchases to go astray in the mails.

The next time you are in town stop into our office and use your eyes. Then you will want to use printed stationery.
