Many cities are boasting of their increase in population. But it would be more to the purpose to lament over the depopulation of the farms.

eral other entertainment numbers were introduced but finally it was found to noly to intersperse the dance numbers with entertainment and the latter was dispensed with and the entire night turned over to dancing.

It is impossible for a paper this size to give in any detail the many excellent papers read and addresses given during the two days the stockmen were in session.

Robert Withycombe's address on winter feeding of calves and yearlings was the first of many other very interesting, instructive and profitable talks and papers on the industry which followed.

During the afternoon session Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, read an interesting paper on "Household Remedies for Range Diseases."

Assistant United States District Forester E. N. Kavanaugh read a paper on grazing regulations, setting forth the regulations under which he worked on the forest reserves.

H. A. Brattian of Paisley exploded a bomb in the camp when he read a paper on range conditions and made some pertinent suggestions as to the future method to pursue in the livestock business.

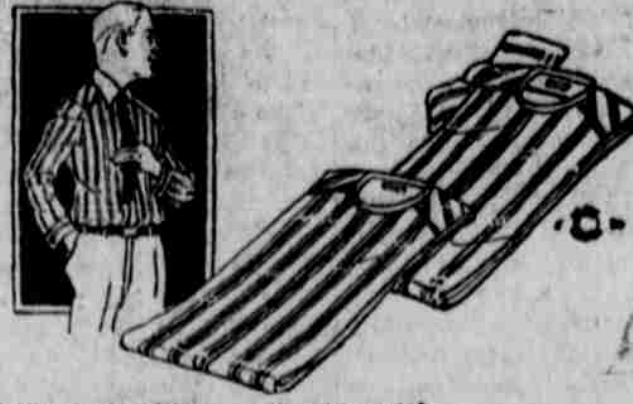

During the first day addresses were given by other prominent men, some engaged actively in the stock business, others in an indirect way.

On the second F. R. Hedrick, western representative of the Kansas City Stock Yards Co., and Geo. C. McMullen, president of the McMullen-Harmon Livestock Commission Co., of Kansas City, discussed why the price of cattle had declined.

William Hanley gave a splendid address upon the general future of the livestock industry.

The general discussions indulged in following some of the addresses were quite beneficial and brought out many good things that otherwise would have been lost.

Geo. H. Russell of Prineville butted into the program just whenever there was a spare moment and he always had something to say.

The former officers were re-elected at this meeting; Wm. Pollman of Baker, president; Geo. H. Russell of Prineville, vice-president; S. O. Correll of Baker, secretary.

Considerable discussion during the convention upon the subject of marketing was responsible for the appointment of a committee on marketing. Senator Pierce had many suggestions along this line and is one of the prime movers in asking for legislation along that line.

The next meeting of the convention will be held at Canyon City. Other places were candidates but the delegates favored Canyon for the coming session by quite a majority.

Something like 50 additional members were added to the roster at the meeting in this city.

The banquet given the visiting stockmen at the Burns Garage dining room was a feature. No representative of this paper was present at the banquet, therefore it has no means of reporting it.

A reception was given the visiting ladies by the ladies of Burns on Monday afternoon at the Commercial Club rooms which proved quite enjoyable.

A heavy rain storm during the afternoon of Monday prevented the delegates and their ladies from seeing more of the surrounding country but all were so pleased to have it rain that there was no complaint.

The buckaroo breakfast was another feature that brought favorable comment. The rain of Monday made the breakfast the following morning rather uncertain but it was announced that if the rain ceased the buckaroo-breakfast would be served at the fair grounds on Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock.

There was some delay because of not being able to make preparations the day before but when it was served it was certainly appetizing, the steaks and camp biscuits being pronounced the best ever.
