

"STRING BEANS" IS TYPICAL TITLE FOR NEW RAY PHOTOPLAY

Fake Cannery Project Basis of Excellent Story for Ince-Paramount Star

Isn't that a typical Ray title? "String Beans!" And it is also quite appropriate for the efforts of a sharper to swindle a guillible lot of farmers with a false cannery project for beans is the basis of the story, which will be seen at the Liberty theatre on next Wednesday. It is a Thomas

A Paramount Picture

H. Ince picture released by Paramount. These facts, coupled with the declaration that Charles Ray is to star and that sweet little Jane Novak is his leading woman—ought to attract record crowds. There is a fine cast, and the story is one of those real country town dramas with lots of humor and human interest and a great character role for Charles Ray.

The efforts of a swindler to get the confidence and coin of the guillible natives of a small town on a string bean cannery project form the basis of the plot. The story is said to be highly amusing, full of human nature and containing a pretty romance.

Mr. Ray as a young farm hand with a literary turn, goes to the local newspapers of a country town and asks for a job which he gets. The proprietor, a typical country editor, is fighting a scheme advanced by a crook to found a bean cannery and the mayor is in favor of it. A big mass meeting is held and the editor is to contest the movement, but falls ill at the last moment. Ray takes his place but gets stuck in the speech and escapes in consternation. Later he prevents the sharper from robbing the mayor, gains the love of the latter's daughter and distinguishes himself. The natives are saved and the swindler is caught with the goods.

TRUFX SEEN IN "THE NIGHT OF THE DUB"
Famous Terhune Story Basis of Delightful Comedy.

"The Night of the Dub," the first Paramount-Truex comedy starring Ernest Truex, the well known stage and screen star, which comes to the Liberty Theatre next Wednesday is the work of no less than four noted artists. First, Truex, who is well known in theatrical circles, makes his first bow to the public as the star in a comedy which is admirably suited to his personality.

The author of "The Night of the Dub" is Albert Payson Terhune, whose works are known the country over. The story first appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, and was enjoyed by all those who read it.

Mrs. Sidney Drew, herself a screen star, is responsible for the adaptation of the story into motion picture form, while the production was ably staged by John Joseph Harvey, well known as a masterly director of screen productions.

There is a fine cast in support of Mr. Truex, and the picture is bound to please all who enjoy a good, clean cut comedy.

Sylvia, who frustrates her marriage to an old man by running away; and her introduction into their society proves them to be shams as far as hating women is concerned. How could any man hate so delightful a girl as Sylvia Weston, personated by Marguerite Clark? All fall in love with her, but she accepted only one of them, the "little bear" as she called him, and both are happy.

Miss Clark is finely supported in this picture the story of which was written by Edward Childs Carpenter the picture was adapted by Eve Unsell and directed by Marshall Nellan, Richard Barthelmess is the leading man.

As Washington Sees 'Em

Washington conferences were important events in the affairs of both the Republican and Democratic nominees and these two pictures show better than any others just how the candidates stack up. It shows Harding and Coolidge, Cox and Roosevelt as Washington saw them together—the best pictures of all four that have been taken since the nominations.

All roads of industry lead to wealth, but most people take the back track.
