THE FUNDAMENTAL INDUSTRY

Reports from the field show that the farm bureau movement continues to spread mightily. The farmers are joining by the thousands all over the land.

The more we hear of this movement the more we are convinced that it is going to do great things in and for this nation. The trouble has been that in our cities and in high places there has been a woeful lack of understanding about the country's fundamental industry—agriculture. Men have been unduly attracted to the big profits and high wages in manufacturing and in serving the big and crowded communities that manufacturing has built up.

When fortunes could be made in a day, little interest could be worked up in a business that required a combination of intelligence, industry and patience—the business of producing food. Men forgot that it was basic and that, being basic, it should be fostered for their sake as well as its own. It naturally followed that the city workman and also the financier and merchant, felt that city work, city business, city wages, city profits, were the really important things in this country. They are not.

Men everywhere will have to come to the realization that food producing is the fundamental industry and that all others depend on it in the last analysis. When they do come to this realization, economics, politics, and life in general, will begin to look up in this country, in the cities as well as in the quieter places. The farm bureau movement will, we think, lead the way to this great national change of viewpoint.

A little child speaks as it thinks. When it grows to maturity it often speaks without thinking.

Wise and Otherwise

Set a thief to catch a thief and you have two of them to watch.

If you are able to name the wise men of this town it is an indication that you are one of the number.

Opportunity greets you, hesitates, and turns to the man who beckons. Your procrastination is your loss.

Do not judge the worth of a man by his ability to talk. Brains seldom wag.

May prompt success attend your every noble impulse, brother—especially when you reach into your pocket for that subscription renewal.

Had to Live On Milk For Weeks

Flu Left Her Weak and Nervous; Gains Fifteen Pounds by Taking Tanlac.

"I can truthfully say that I believe Tanlac has saved my life," was the remarkable statement made recently by Mrs. Mary Schultz, of 165 South Sixteenth Street, Portland, Oregon.

"It was about a year ago that I suffered an awful attack of the influenza," she continued, "and it left me so weak I could hardly walk. I fell off twenty-nine pounds in four weeks time and became so alarmed I thought I was going to die. I had rheumatic pains in my side, and my kidneys were so badly disordered that I had pains in my back all the way down my spine. Constipation troubled me nearly all the time and I had headaches so bad I thought they would drive me frantic. I was feverish all the time and felt so weak and miserable that I couldn't even straighten up my own room. My appetite was poor, just the smell of food made me deathly sick at my stomach and for weeks the only thing I could take was cold milk. I was so nervous I never knew what it was to get a good night's rest and many times I could not get over one hour's sleep.

"I had heard so much about Tanlac that I knew I couldn't make a mistake by trying it, so I started taking it and right away I began to improve. My strength came back fast and I have now gained fifteen pounds in weight and it is no trouble at all for me to do my housework all by myself. My kidneys are in splendid condition and the pains in my side and back have all disappeared. I am no longer constipated and am never troubled with headaches and my nerves are so steady I can sleep sound all night long. My appetite is just wonderful and everything I eat digests perfectly. I am sixty-three years old, but I believe I can do as much work as I could when I was a girl, and I just feel so grateful to Tanlac that I think it my duty to tell others what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Burns, by Reed and in Crane by Crane Mercantile Co.

The fellow who believes in town improvement should first improve that which he owns or controls.
