"Disagreeable process—in some cases painful, but makes for greater strength and vigor; solidity and stability."

SMALL MEN TREAT WOMEN RESPECTFULLY?

We don't quite understand these "Alice Paul and Margaret Hildreth persons who hang out at Washington as the leaders of a so-called "Women's Party." Miss Alice and Miss Margaret have decided to hold a convention of the party in February, at which time they will take steps to put an end to the thing of men taking their hats off to ladies and standing up in presence of women.

They denounce such gallantries as "piffing," and not becoming to the independent new woman who now has a vote.

To our mind the male individual who shows respect to womankind, proves that he is a real man. The fellow who won't take his hat off to a woman is either an ignoramus or a ruffian. Of course there are plenty of them, especially in Europe, where women often take the horse's lace at the plow. In America, respect for women is a national trait, a characteristic that makes our men manly, gentle, two-fisted humans.

We don't think Alice and Margaret will get very far with their kind of party. Also we suspect that their party is one that they can easily carry in their vest pockets.

But anyway, we know one man who will salute the women folks respectfully and treat them dithfully and with devotion at all times and under all circumstances, regardless of all the mannish Alices and Margarets in Christendom. We don't mind stating that that man is the editor.

THINK IN TIME

A word of caution even to the wisest is not amiss at times.

The season is approaching when all people will be making their Christmas purchases.

The fact that money has been plentiful for the past few years has not removed the element of caution from our home people, and neither has it blunted their desire for economy.

Caution dictates that we buy from a house that is known for its honesty

Conductor Feels Full of New Life and Energy Since Taking Tanlac

"I have gained twenty pounds in weight in little more than a month, and I am feeling fine as I ever did in my life and Tanlac is the cause of it all," said A. Storman, 1309 South Fifteenth St. Tacoma, Wash.

"For several years I have been bothered with rheumatism in my shoulders and right arm, and my joints ached so bad I could hardly do my work. In cold weather I was in almost constant pain and it was impossible for me to sleep to do any good. Then several months ago, due to overwork and to my badly run-down condition my health just seemed to break down all at once. I lost my appetite, my stomach went back on me and I began to lose in weight rapidly. I couldn't touch a bite for breakfast and I could hardly retain anything I ate at other meals. I suffered with terrible cramps in my stomach and I would bloat up with gas until I felt miserable. It was a job for me to get around and I got so weak I just felt all in.

"When I saw what Tanlac was doing for so many other motorists and conductors I decided to give it a trial. Four bottles of Tanlac are all I have taken and to-day I have been built up more than I ever thought was possible. There is not a trace of rheumatism in my system that I can tell and I have free use of my arms and shoulders once more. My stomach was never in better shape than it is right now and I can eat anything on the table without any trouble at all. I sleep like a log at night and every morning, after a hearty breakfast, I am ready for work, and I can work twice as good now as I could before."

and its willingness to guarantee the quality of its goods.

Economy requires that quality be proportionate to price.

The home dealer is known to you. He can not afford to sell you a shoddy or inferior article because it would come back to him. He can not afford to gouge you because it would put him out of business.

Both his honor and his business safety compel him to give you a square deal.

Think this over before the rush is on.

People who think twice before they buy once seldom make a mistake.

TELL IT TO THE EDITOR

Every newspaper editor is desirous of printing all of the legitimate news of his subscription field. That is the object of his paper.

But unfortunately an editor is partly human—he at least is moulded in human form. He does not possess a dozen pair of hands, or legs, or eyes, or ears for the collection of this vast fund of information.

That is why the editor urges you to tell him what you know—to keep him informed of the doings of yourself and family, of your friends, or of the community in general.

It is the only way to make a good paper—and a good paper is one of the prime requisites to a good community in which to live and do business.

Tell it to the editor. He'll tell others—if it is tellable.

The fellow who thinks the world owes him a living is generally too lazy to collect it.

Reverses are depressing only to those who give in to them.

Many a man can see a wart on a neck in the pew ahead of him when he can't see the collection plate as it passes in front of him.

And still, a "no vot, no eat" law might help some.

There is still a little joy left to mankind. The oyster "stew" is not yet in the prohibited list.

A little sunshine dispels the darkest spots of life. But it seldom passes a closed door.

A kind word to some people elicits only a grant in response. But the pig is never jealous of its imitator.

We hope, however, automobiles will not become so cheap no one will want to buy them.

RECORD THROWS ENDORSE LEGION BY WILD CHEERING

One of the largest and most spectacular parades, numbering about 20,000, that ever marched in U. S. khaki, was staged in Cleveland, O., where the national convention of the American Legion was held. Thousands cheered their tribute to the great organization, which was represented by every division in the U. S. Army. Posts from every state in the Union were represented, made up of all branches of the service—Army, Navy, and Marine—also our boys who served with the former allies, France, England, Canada, Scotland, Australia and Italy. The one little group—three squads only—that received the greatest ovation—even greater than the nurses and the several other branches represented by the fair sex—was the 24 heroes, the bravest of the brave, some wearing several decorations. They were part of the 54 who have received the Congressional medal of honor.

SAVERS AND SPENDERS

Can you recall the little incidents of your young days?

Perhaps you remember some child who was "close" with his pennies, who put them in his bank and kept them there.

That child, even in its tender years, was imbued with the habit of saving, was cultivating the budding idea of thrift.

If you can locate that child today has made a commercial success of you will probably find a man who life, who is financially at ease, even if not wealthy.

The child who saves his pennies in time becomes the man who accumulates his dollars.

But the one who spends his pennies as fast as he gets them generally has fastened itself upon him to such finds that in after years the habit an extent that his life becomes one of endless spending—always earning money but never having a surplus dollar.

The greatest financial injury you can do your child is to encourage it to go out and spend its few cents.

It marks the beginning of a bad ending.

For it is easier for the leopard to change its spots than for the spender made anything but what he is.

Letters to the editor are always welcome—doubly so when accompanied by a check. Write often.

Some queens at times exhibit symptoms of being almost human. She of England and the ladies of her court are said to be buying second hand gowns in order to make war on the prevailing high prices in London.

The government has duly and officially decreed that woman is man's equal, but we venture the prediction that she will not insist upon her new born rights when it comes time to build the fire on a cold winter morning.
