

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

You may not want to vote your ticket straight, but that is human. In fact most of us are little more independent these days than formerly—the straight party man is becoming about as scarce as "hen's teeth."

Died—G. W. Coble died at the Summit Hotel yesterday morning from spotted fever. He was a man about 60 years old and is a stranger in his vicinity, coming here from Idaho.

Next Tuesday night is election at the Rebekah lodge. Lodge will convene at 7:30 sharp as it is desired to have the business over before the curtain rises for the high school senior play.

Harney Lodge, Odd Fellows, will be well represented at the Grand Lodge next week. Among the local members and delegates going are John Hodder, Gus Bardwell, J. S. Taylor and R. E. Drake.

It is learned this week that the hoof and mouth disease was responsible for the late date set for the Chautauqua at Burns this year. A representative of the Ellison-White Chautauqua Bureau informs us that this disease was responsible for a three weeks delay in starting the Chautauqua datings in Southern California which caused the more northern towns to be booked later than usual.

J. M. Dalton was on the sick list for a few days recently but is again on duty at the store. Jim hopes to see the railroad line completed to Burns on schedule time as he has reason to believe if he offers the inducement to Mrs. Dalton that she can ride right to Burns on the train she'll come up during the summer and take care of him.

J. W. "Pop" Sayer, was 79 years old last Monday. He was the recipient of a big cake properly decorated, made and presented to him by the teachers of the public school where "Pop" is the engineer. He was very proud of the cake but altogether selfish, as he merely came to the door of this office to display it and never offered a sample to the newspaper man—and he knows of our "sweet tooth."

High school closes next Friday.

C. A. Hawkins was over from his Diamond ranch yesterday. He extended an invitation to the newspaper man to come out to his home and fish, one that is going to be taken advantage of the first opportunity.

Lambas have been contracted for in the Burns and Prineville sections at 10 cents a pound, no discount, for mixed; and nine cents, no discount, for wethers. As yet no lamb buyers have appeared here, but it is understood that C. D. Arthur may soon be in the market as representative of Eastern firms.

D. T. Jones, who arrived last week from the Lane & Jones ranch near Sunitex, Harney county, Friday met with a painful injury when he stumbled in climbing over an old fence at Cottonwood. He landed on a rock cutting open the left side of his head, causing it to bleed profusely.

E. A. Fraser, one of the pioneer merchants of Ontario accompanied by a Mr. Harris was a visitor to our city last Sunday and Monday. Mr. Fraser has many old time friends in this vicinity who were glad to see him.

The old fair grounds has been cleared up, the track leveled down and all the improvements but a portion of the old grand stand have been removed. The Round-Up boys are using the improvements of the tract where they will hold the annual event.

Harney county will surely not be so short sighted as to turn down the proposition made by the Forest service to co-operate in building some real roads. When everything is so favorable at this time for such an improvement on such attractive terms as are sure it is time that we take advantage of it.

U. S. EXPERTS LEAD WAR ON FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

This is Dr. U. G. Houck of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, (left) who has been placed by Secretary Wallace in complete command of the fight being effectively waged on the foot and mouth disease outbreak in California, and G. H. Hecke, director Department of Agriculture, State of California, who is assisting Dr. Houck in quickly and permanently stamping out the epidemic.

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—The full force of the United States government has been brought into play effectively against the foot and mouth disease in California. The disease has been confined to certain limited districts in the state and the work of stamping it out is proceeding rigorously under the direction of Dr. U. G. Houck, personal Representative of Secretary Wallace, department of agriculture, who has complete control of the combined federal and state forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Nellie Reed drove over to Bend last Sunday returning home Wednesday. They went over just for a visit with old friends.

HISTORY OF THE BLUEJACKETS UNIFORM

The blouse known by women folks as the middy, is the modern form of what was originally called the sailor's frock. It is to-day called a jumper in the Navy, when made of white material. In blue material it is called the "overshirt" and tucks hold the waist-band with a blouse effect.

The Navy uniform of our country is almost the same as that of the British Navy from which our Navy sprang. The principal difference is the two stars on the collar of our uniform which make it distinctively American and are not worn by other navies.

The Navy uniform of our country is almost the same as that of the British Navy from which our Navy sprang. The principal difference is the two stars on the collar of our uniform which make it distinctively American and are not worn by other navies.

The adoption of the uniform dates back to the early days of the British Navy. Tradition has it that when the subject was under discussion in the British Admiralty and the question arose as to whether to use red for the Navy, as was the case in the Army, the matter was decided by a curious accident.

ly morning and met the Dutchess of Cumberland who was also riding. Her riding habit was of blue cloth trimmed with white braid and more or less of the general appearance of the middy blouse.

The broad collar has long been worn by all seamen. It was usually of leather and was detachable like an apron. It was worn to protect the clothing from the grease and tar used by sailors to confine their hair into a pigtail, which was the style in those days.

The bottoms of the trousers are made bell shaped in order that they may be rolled up when the docks are wet and the sailors go barefooted.

It is said that the three strips of white braid on the collars are intended to commemorate the three great battles of Nelson, and that the black neckerchief is worn in mourning for that officer, but this legend is not believed to be correct.

The flat hat worn by sailors, was originally made with lacing in the side of the hat band which could be loosened, thus allowing the hat to be pulled down over the entire head in cold weather or worn as at present in good weather.

The rating badge on the upper sleeve indicates the character and rank of the petty officers who wear them, while the diagonal stripes on the fore-arm denote the number of enlistments served.

HOME POINTERS

School of Home Economics O. A. C. Always hang a mirror so the light will fall on the object to be reflected and not on the mirror.

Arrange the hall lights so they may be operated with three switches. This allows for the light to be turned on either upstairs or downstairs.

Conceal the radiator in a window seal, or to make it inconspicuous, paint it the same tone as the background.

To repair cracks and holes in plaster walls, trim out the rough edges and fill the cracks with plaster of Paris. Finish the walls with two coats of lead and oil and a coat of water proof enamel.

Fiber rugs are practical, durable, and attractive for porch wear because they do not fade or spot and are easily cleaned. They are inexpensive and harmonize well with the out doors atmosphere.

An old house may be easily wired for electric lighting without disturbing the ceiling and partitions.

Save curtains may be kept from blowing by running a leaded cord through the hem at the bottom of the curtains. This gives enough weight to keep the curtains inside.

To light the closet, install a door switch so you will have immediate light.

SO APPRECIATIVE

"You n-never seem to take any interest in anything I do," sobbed the bride.

"Don't be unreasonable, my dear" remonstrated her husband. "I remained awake all last night and thought of the cake you baked yesterday."

THE WAY HE LIKED IT

Employer: "Now that we have decided to give you a position, I don't know of a better time than now to tell you that 'early' hours are the rule in this establishment."

New Clerk: "That's good. You can't close too early for me."

BLONDE BESS OPINES—

Personally, I don't care for this Leap Year game—seems to me there's no sense in it.

Young Thing: "I love Gothic Architecture."

Grandmother (in corner): "Be careful of a foreign-ur, Grace. A plain American man was good enough for me—and your mother, too."
