INVENTION has revolutionized the century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and a form of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes; pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young, or old; no special ability required; capital required; you are starved free; cut this out, and return to us, and we will send you free, some thing of great value and assistance to you that will start you in business which will bring you in more money right away than anything else in the world; grand outfit free. Address Tark & Co., Augusta, Maine.

DEEPSEA WONDERS exist in thousands of forms, but are suppressed by the mere want of invention; those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to H. A. Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free, full information how all these, of all ages, can earn from $10 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live; you are starved free; capital not required; some have made over $50 in a single day at this work; all succeed.

FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.

Ed. Herald: "Little Phil," as Gen. Sheridan was styled, has joined the innumerable caravan that journeys to the pale realms of death. The funeral was, according to his wish, strictly military.

The senate is still busy on its new tariff measure, and the sub-committees are hearing representatives of various interests prior to the formation of the coming bill. Senator Sherman, chairman of the committee on the order of business, has issued a circular letter to republican members to dispose of their pending business, and from appearances the senate tariff bill will receive full discussion, which promises a long session, which is irksome to members who want to get away from the city during the heat term.

A Long Railroad.
The day is not far distant when an all-rail line will connect New York city with Buenos Ayres, the capital of the Argentine Republic, in South America. The plan is certainly feasible. An international railroad extending from the United States through Mexico and Central America, and draining South America from one extreme to the other, must of necessity cement international trade on the American continent. Much more has been accomplished towards a realization of this railroad project than is commonly credited. Within the past three years the South American states have actually built and surveyed routes at least one-third of the distance, about 1,000 miles, between Buenos Ayres and Bogota, the capital of Colombia, not 500 miles from DeLesseppe's canal at Panama. Railroad connections are already established between our country and the City of Mexico. And the task of binding the Spanish republics of the south to the Mexican capital, though of a stupendous character, is certainly within the possibilities of engineering triumphs. The completion of DeLesseppe's great canal at Panama will be a great stimulus to the project. Undoubtedly the gap of 1,000 miles between the City of Mexico and the Panama canal will be closed by railroad connection as soon as the commercial importance of the inter-oceanic canal is established. There would be, in that event, about 2,500 miles to be built between the Panama canal and the termini of the railroads leading northward from Buenos Ayres. The difficulties in the way of a South American rail-road are no greater than the obstacles that attended the building the Union Pacific twenty years ago. What can be done in the next twenty years may now appear fanciful and harebrained.—Omaha Bee.

Women not Citizens.
The supreme court of Washington Territory, in sustaining the decision of the lower court that the woman suffrage law is unconstitutional, says:

"The intention of congress in using the word 'citizen,' as found in the organic law, is considered by the court as pertaining wholly to persons of the masculine gender, the object being to exclude aliens from using the elective franchise, and not extending any particular powers to women. It never was intended that women should be admitted as delegates to the house of representatives in congress. The form of every word in the Constitution of the United States goes to show that the offices provided for therein shall be males. The form of every word in that relation is masculine. For thirty years congress has understood the meaning of the word 'citizen,' as far as the privilege of voting was concerned, to mean males only."

It seems impossible to keep Mrs. Cleveland out of the campaign. She is not an issue in it, but one of the most interesting features.—Catholic Sentinel.

A volcanic eruption at Bandisan fifty miles from Yokohama, in Japan, has destroyed several villages and killed 1,000 persons, including 100 visitors at the thermal springs. A fresh crater has formed and the eruption still continues.

The Philadelphia Times (Ind. Rep.) unqualifiedly asserts that the pretended quotations from English papers in republican organs are mostly pure forgeries.—East Oregonian.
