

HARNEY COUNTY is an established fact, the bill for its creation having passed the Legislature. The news caused unbounded satisfaction to the people of the Harney country.

Harney is the temporary county-seat, and the citizens there are greatly invigorated by their good fortune.

The democrats in the House all voted to sustain the Governor's veto of the Bull Run bill.

The House failed to pass the Bull Run water bill over the Governor's veto by a vote of 37 to 22. In the Senate there were but 6 votes against passing the same bill over the veto.

Portland World: An Oregonian reporter stated to Gov. Penney that "The Multnomah delegation claims that you are entirely responsible for keeping Bull Run water from the people of Portland—what do you say to that?" To which his excellency replied: "It does not throw the responsibility upon my shoulders, but on their own. If they want to they can introduce a bill without the non-taxation clause, and have it passed in both houses in short order. Their indisposition to do so shows that the water commission cares more to get the bonds free from taxation, they will wait in vain, for no Legislature will ever exempt their bonds again."

Wasco Sun: Gov. Penney has approved the bill prohibiting the sale of tobacco to minors under 18 years of age. Dealers will make a note of this, as the law is now in force.

The house, Monday, reconsidered the vote by which the horticultural bill was defeated and succeeded in passing it. Upon receiving the signature of the Governor it will be a law, and a good one, too.

Vale Atlas: First chinook this winter this week and the ground is nearly bare in consequence.

Wasco Sun: Already little wild flowers are showing themselves in sheltered places on the hillsides.

Portland World: E. P. McCornack of Salem has been visiting the city.

The bill for the forming of Harney county, as introduced in the House by Gilham, does not provide for the location of a county seat. But when the bill goes to the Senate an amendment will be offered making Harney the temporary county seat. This will not be appreciated by the people of Burns.

The State of Oregon may well be and undoubtedly is proud of the invincible determination of Gov. Penney to do what he thinks is right. Many Republicans vie with Democrats in uttering their admiration for his sturdy and outspoken positions in vetoing the exemption of the Portland water bonds from taxation, a matter in which his personal and private interests are involved. No one who will weigh the Governor's acts, in this particular case, who has any desire to do the executive justice will and must readily concede that Gov. Penney has exercised his veto power, against his own personal interest, against the interest of his influential everyday neighbors, against the interests of the city in which he lives, in order that the burden of taxation may be uniform and just.

Our readers' attention is invited to Belford's Magazine, a copy of which is on the editor's desk at all times for inspection, and a file in the reading room. It is, as you will see, thoroughly and aggressively Democratic, and in its literary features equal to the best.

Col. Don Platt, the editor, is well known for his able and fearless advocacy of Democratic principles when editor of the Washington Capitol, and no political writers other than such as command the respect and confidence of the voters of the country will be employed.

"COUNTY DIVIDED!"

COCK-A-DOODLE-DOO!!

Boys, do You Hear the Slogan? Now, for the Onward March to Prosperity!

Right about Face! One Foot Three Feet in Advance to Act as a Brace!

Eyes and Mouth Towards Harney! Forward! March!

The following telegram was received Saturday night, Feb. 23d: SALEM, OR., Feb. 23, 1889. 7:50 p. m.—County is divided. Harney gets the temporary county-seat. W. E. GRACE.

We would like to have had Burns as the temporary county-seat, but "couldn't get there," yet, tho' "disappointments sink the heart of man, renewal of hope gives consolation."

We accept the situation, however, and, with hat in hand make our bow and bid farewell to our Shire-town!

Hamilton County.

Long Creek Eagle: The bill creating Hamilton county passed the Senate on the 14th inst., without a dissenting vote, and has also passed its second reading in the House of Representatives. Reliable information from Salem has reached us which says that "Our Bill" is in a thriving condition and more liable to pass both houses than is "little Willie," [Harney county] from the southern end of the county.

[We learn that Hamilton county bill passed successfully through the fiery ordeal of opposition.—ED. HERALD.]

Bismarck's neuralgia is complicated with rheumatism, want of appetite and insomnia. He, however, continues to work, against the advice of his doctors. Intrigues, aiming to sap his influence with the Emperor, worry the Chancellor more than ever.

Tule lake, the scene of so many tragic events, is rapidly receding. The cause is not apparent, but it is conjectured that it is owing to its subterranean and only outlet having by natural causes become enlarged, thus giving a greater escape for its waters. In a few years more if its present rate of decline should continue, there will be many thousand acres of good available land for settlement.

The new license law to regulate the selling of ardent spirits passed the Oregon Legislature. It fixes the license at $400; for selling malt liquor alone, $200. Applicants must get a majority of all votes cast at the preceding election on his petition. The law does not apply to incorporated towns.

The Canadian Pacific has canceled the dates of all trains leaving Ottawa on account of snow drifts.

The Los Angeles railroad has discharged its white laborers and replaced them with Chinamen at one dollar per day.

Tat McGinnis.

Baker City Reveille: We learn from a reliable source that the attorney of McGinnis, the doomed Canyon City murderer, played his client a trick which, however unworthy of sympathy McGinnis may be, places his attorney and only earthly defense, in a not very enviable light, if it does not eventually disbar him from the practice of his profession. It is a well known fact that through some technicality he had succeeded in obtaining a respite of sixty days for McGinnis and a hearing before the supreme court. This lease on life and the hope that springs eternal in the human breast was cut short, however, by McGinnis' attorney going on a spree and failing to appear when the case came up before the supreme court at Salem on Wednesday.

Immigration. Immigration is pouring into Walla Walla so rapidly the city hall has been vacated and made into an emigrant's temporary home. A government official, who passed through Roseburg, says a Roseburg paper, in course of conversation, expressed his belief there would be an unprecedented immigration to the Pacific coast and especially to Oregon this year. "When I was preparing to leave for the West," said the gentleman, "hundreds of people came to me with the request that I send them all the information possible concerning the country when I reached Oregon. The hard winters in the East will drive thousands of people to this coast next year beyond a doubt. I am very much pleased with Oregon and when I have sufficiently examined the country, I will write a letter to our local paper so the people there may know something definite about the grand climate and natural resources of your States."

A paper is in circulation in our county, says the Umpqua Herald, for the purpose of securing signers, who will pledge themselves to the monthly payment of a stipulated sum for five months, in order to secure the services of J. C. Boyd, an experienced immigrant agent, for that length of time in the states of Ohio, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois. Mr. Boyd proposes to deliver lectures in these states on the natural advantages of Roseburg, and resources of Douglas county, and to do everything possible to induce immigration to this valley. The proposition seems to us a good one and we hope enough of our citizens will pledge themselves to pay, one dollar a month, to enable him to carry out the plan. What Douglas county needs is an immigration of people, possessing a fair amount of means, and sufficient energy to utilize the magnificent natural resources of the country.

Eastern Oregon Railroad News.

The Albany Herald says a gentleman who has just returned from the front on the Oregon Pacific, was interrogated concerning the work on the road eastward. It was learned that regular trains are now running to Mills City, eight miles above Mehama, the road being completed to that point. The approaches to the 400-foot tunnel are about finished, and the work of excavating and putting in timbers is fairly commenced. A good many men are quitting work on account of the cold weather and these usually find their way to this city. A large force of men are still at work for Messrs. Searle & Deane, however, and these gentlemen expect to keep considerable force at work, engaging principally on rock work and the tunnel. The construction has progressed in a satisfactory manner during the comparatively short season's work, the road being now completed over forty miles eastward from Albany.

Ashland Record: From a private letter to an Ashland gentleman we learn the following concerning the railroad through eastern Oregon. It is written from Millville, Shasta county, by a prominent lawyer: "There are now, as I write this letter, seventeen engineers, surveyors and locators laying out a railroad in this neighborhood, and gradually approaching Millville. They are coming towards our town on a ridge which divides old Cow creek and Clover creek, and are within two miles of this place, and will move their camp to-morrow further down the creek in the direction of Cottonwood. From all we can learn from the surveyors they intend to move south from this place in the direction of Cottonwood; but the road may be extended further on. There are several other gangs of surveyors all acting in concert, surveying the same railroad route in a northerly direction through Fall river valley on to eastern Oregon. I cannot say how soon work will commence on this road, but they say they have discovered a good practicable route for a railroad and they seem to think that the road will be built with all possible haste after the road is all surveyed and located."

De Lesseps is ill. The infirmities of age have suddenly fallen upon him with the collapse of the Panama Canal scheme. Daily leaves have ceased, and the family will not allow visitors to refer to the Panama Canal. It is reported he is going to end his days at his villa at Ismailia. Viscount de Lesseps was born at Versailles on the 19th of November, 1805, consequently is now nearly 84 years of age.
