

THE HERALD.

THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1888.

D. L. GRACE, Editor.

The Seventh annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Oregon, will be held in Salem, May 8th, 9th, and 10th.

The law passed by the last legislature requires that all physicians register in the county clerk's office of the county in which they practice. The time allowed by law for registration expired Saturday, the 20th ult, and those who failed to get their names down before that date will have to pass an examination before the state board of examiners.

THE HERALD with pleasure acknowledges receipt of invitation to attend the formal opening of the North Pacific Industrial Association Fair Building, at Portland, on Tuesday evening, April 30, 1889, on occasion of the celebration of the inauguration of George Washington as first President of the United States. The grand military promenade concert and ball that closes the exercises of the day, under the auspices of the Oregon National Guard gave promise of being one of the most recheere affairs of the year.

A COMPARISON of the 1889 edition of the Directory with that for 1888, shows a net increase of 797 in the number of newspapers. The book for 1889 contains a description of 2,685 newspapers, which were not in the previous edition, but there were (a most remarkable coincidence of figures) 1,888 newspapers in the last year's edition of the book, which died or disappeared from the newspaper world during the year 1888. The total number of periodical publications now issued in the United States and Canada is 17,107.

EXCHANGE CLIPPINGS

Portland Rural Spirit: The press quite generally has been heralding the news that Al Farrow, an Oregon-bred horse, had, on the 6th inst., at San Jose, Cal., lowered the mile record made in a race. While Al Farrow's race is a great one, it is not the best time, nor the best race. The time, 1:40, equals the time of Stuyvesant, at Sheepshead Bay, September 7, 1887. But when we reason that this horse was but a 3-year-old, and carried 111 1/2 lbs., and that Al Farrow is a 4-year-old, and carried but 63 lbs., it will hardly be called as good a performance as that of Stuyvesant.

Al Farrow was bred and raised in Lake county, Oregon, and his owner has refused $20,000 for him.

Lakeview Examiner: Col. Elliott, ex-special agent of the land department, left for the east Tuesday. He says it took him four hours to get into office, and four weeks to get out.

Silver State: Frankie Sweetser, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Sweetser, was riding a tricycle a few days ago, when the machine broke and inflicted a severe wound on the child's thigh. Dr. Hanson, who attended the little fellow, took a few stitches in the wound, which will lay the child up for some weeks, as it is quite deep.

Rev. J. W. Pendleton, of Paradise, who unexpectedly arrived here late Saturday, occupied the pulpit at the M. E. Church last night, and the congregation listened to the sermon, preached from the text, "One Sinner Destroyeth Much Good," Ecclesiastical, IX Chapter, 18th verse, which the Reverend gentleman elucidated to the evident satisfaction of his hearers. Among other things, the preacher said: "We are apt to take a too narrow and unphilosophic view of saving souls." (The text is startling because of its novelty and its contingent truths. Comparisons were here made to pure air; to clear streams of water, and to white surfaces, all of which may be impure.) "Sin is the only enemy to purity and goodness. Sin, of which the sinner is agent, is a disease. It is the same as a physical disease, a spiritual malady or a moral disorder. But the spiritual disease is one thousand times more active than all of the others. They are all propagated and disseminated through the same channel. Physical diseases and family weakness are handed down from one generation to another. Children inherit diseases, physical, moral and spiritual. Evil communications corrupt good morals. Family as well as public relationships prove this. By infection children contract evil disorder. Spiritual disorder is some times slow and insidious, but it is remarkably sure.

Roseburg Plaindealer: Mr. J. C. Boyd expects to leave for Portland tonight to look after the immigration coming in from the east; and to secure a portion for Douglas county.

There is a case of small pox in Looking Glass. Mr. Charles Rose is down with that dread disease. Dr. Power the attending physician, reports doing well with good prospects of speedy recovery.

The names of persons in whose honor trees were planted by the Roseburg school children on Arbor Day, were: Gen. Joseph Lane, the first governor of Oregon; Sylvester Pennoyer, the present governor of Oregon; E. B. McElroy, state superintendent of public instruction; G. W. Jones, Dr. Hamilton and S. C. Flint, directors; B. L. Arnold, principal State Agricultural College; Aaron Rose, proprietor of Roseburg, and Prof. J. B. Horner, principal of the Roseburg school.

Statesman: At Roseburg the immigrants are coming in so thick that they are compelled to spread tents and camp in the grove west of the city, and the citizens are going to fix up two of the large warehouses near the depot for shelter for the new comers until they can find other quarters, for the houses are all occupied. The same story is repeated in all of the valley towns. New buildings are going up in all of them, and this country is on the eve of a new era. The people of the overworked East have just heard of Oregon's modern land of Canaan, and for the next twenty years there is going to be a rush for this country. It has already started. Mark this prediction. The era of big wheat farms and Webfoot laziness and shiftlessness is beginning to pass, and it is never going to return. It is apparent from the influx of immigrants by every train and from the scarcity of houses, that Salem will soon be called upon to make such provisions as are made in Roseburg for their temporary shelter while selecting homes. The strangers must be provided for, well taken care of and encouraged.

Prineville News: Jim Moore, who some years ago married Miss Alice Hale, and who is pretty well known here, went out to the Harney country where he lately took unto himself another wife. Jim's last marriage was illegal, as he has never been divorced from his first wife. He was subsequently placed under arrest for his bigamous conduct, but by some means escaped from the officer who had him in charge, since which time he has been too scarce to be found.

Roseburg Review: Mrs. Harrison is said to have made an arrangement with the manager of a New York news bureau by which she is to pay $100 a month to know what all the newspapers of the country say about the Harrison family.

Russell Harrison, son of the President, was arrested last week in New York charged with criminal libel on ex-Governor Crosby of Montana.—Daily Call.

Long Creek Eagle: This section of country is now without any minister of the gospel Rev. Bartholomew, it seems has deserted his post and taken up his abode in Burns, where he will remain until the meeting of next M. E. Conference. Bro. Pratt is out exercising his muscle in a shearing pen, trying to earn enough money to support himself and family while he labors for the salvation of souls. While Bro. Pratt cannot but be admired for the independent way in which he has acted, it does appear as though the people of Long Creek and adjacent country are rather backward about contributing to the support of preachers.

Prineville Review: D. E. and Marion Templeton returned last week from Harney county. They were well pleased with the country, and think there is a brilliant future in store for it.

Prineville News: County Judge Summer left on Tuesday of this week for the Harney country. His trip is strictly a business one, and he will be absent about two weeks.

An exchange says "The rush of immigration to south-eastern Oregon not only continues, but seems to be increasing. The opening up to settlement of vast tracts of valuable land that has been fraudulently held from the settler for a long time, has had the effect of causing a grand rush to that place.

The Wickedest Men in the World.

Who are the wickedest men in the world? Upon whom fits this fearful stigma? Upon the poor slave of vice, from whose hands and feet, and souls, dangle chains of slavery and despair, forged in the fires of sinful passions, from sin-deformed habit, and vitiated appetites? Are such weak and pitiable passion-slaves responsible for the leprous condition of society to which they are adding their personal contagion; are such moral imbeciles competent to mash all the dark legions of iniquity, and to carry on the soul destructive work of the devil? Popular opinion says, yes, ignorantly, passionately, yes. We say, no; decidedly, emphatically no; these are not the wickedest men. They bear the same relation to the wickedest men, that the hired sentinels, who shot down innocent Union soldiers, in Andersonville prison, bore to Friend Wirz, the same relation that private soldiers in the rebel army bore to Jeff. Davis. If the work of the devil were to depend upon these rotten progs, it would soon tumble into utter decay and insignificance. By these living loathsome carcasses the world is repelled from, rather than allured into the paths of wickedness. The wickedest men are more attractive and apparently more respectable. They belong to the strictest sect of modern Pharisees. Their soul-rottenness is dressed up in shining silk of deceptive hypocrisy. They wear the entire wardrobe of external religious conformity; fringes and phylacteries and all! They come to you "in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves." Who, then, are the wickedest men in the world?

Those who are the strongest supporters of the business of the devil. Those who, by means of superior position and influence, give weight and respectability to the popular vices by either a shameless moderate indulgence, or an unmanly neutrality.

Those who not only connive at the wickedness of the people, but who actually stand in the way of the only means of ameliorating the condition of society, the conversion of the people.

Who opposed Christ in his great work of saving mankind? The Scribes and Pharisees—The religious demagogues of the day.

The common people heard him gladly. Who prejudiced the people in the time of the early Christian Church against the truth? The Jewish Sanhedrim the highest humanly recognized church authority then upon the earth.

Who hindered the Apostle Paul in his earnest missionary labors? False teachers with whom he fought at Ephesus, as with wild beasts. Who made Luther's work difficult? The then existing church hierarchy. Who blindfolded the members of the Roman Church to day? Her priests.

What is to blame for the strong and popular prejudice against earnest religion in many Protestant communities to day? The answer is clear: Not the priests! What would be the result if all the true christians and all the preachers (who ought all to be true christians) of such a community would cast all denominational differences and preferences to the winds, and cordially strike hands to save the unsaved? Would they not thereby remove every hindering cause to a general revival of the religion as it is in the Christ the son of the living God. And would not the people, divested of prejudice, come crowding the altars of the church, earnestly inquiring for salvation? Must not every conscientious person answer this question affirmatively? Then are not these unfaithful guides who prejudice the people against the truth as it is in Jesus; these who have the key to the kingdom, who enter not in themselves, neither permit others to enter; these, the object of whose office seems to be to keep the people in ignorance of the saving power of the blood of Jesus—are not these "whited sepulchers" the wickedest men in the world?

Our Book Coupon No. 2 presents another remarkable result of Alden's Literary Revolution. A copy of the book is to be seen at this office, which Mr. Alden sells at 50c, is printed in large type, on good paper, excellent printing, and tasteful cloth binding, and is every way superior to the edition formerly published at the price of $1.50.

Few readers of books have not heard of The Lamplighter; which with two or three exceptions, is the most popular and widely circulated novel ever published by an American author.

Wholly free from any attempt at sensationalism, it is intensely interesting, and though not a theological novel is thoroughly Christian in its tone. We congratulate our readers on our ability to offer them a book so every way excellent, on such surprisingly easy terms. Only those who have paid up their subscription to our paper for 1889, or who come and pay up subscription for said year before May 11th, can avail themselves of this offer.

I must confess that I have a theory which will perhaps be ridiculed but which has governed my whole life. I believe in the constant intervention of a Supreme Power directing not merely our destiny in general, but those of our actions which influence our destiny. When I see that nothing in nature is left to chance, that immutable laws govern every movement, that the faintest spark which glimmers in the firmament disappears and reappears with strict punctuality—I cannot suppose that anything with mankind goes by chance, and that every individuality composing it is not governed by definite and inflexible plan. The great men whose names escape oblivion are like the planets which we know by name, and which stand out of the multitude of stars without names. We know their motions and destinies. We know at what time the comet moving in infinite space will reappear, and that the smallest stars whose existence escapes us obey the fixed law which governs the universe. Under various names, in changing circumstances, by successive and co-ordinate evolutions, the great geniuses known to the world, those whose names have ceased oblivion, reappear. Moses is reflected in Confucius, Mohammed in John Huss, Cyrus lives again in Caesar, in Napoleon, Attila is repeated in Peter the Great, and Frederick II. in Bismark, Louis le Debonnaire in Philip VII, and Catilina in Boulanger. Charlemagne and Joan of Arc alone have not yet reappeared, the one to revive authority and the other la pudeur. Everything moves by a fixed law, and man is master of his own destiny only because he can thwart or promote by his own intervention and action the place he should fill, and the path traced out for him by the general decree which regulates the movements of every creature.—Mr. de Blowitz, in Harper's Magazine for May.

With many, religion never gets above the knees. The boss of a gambling saloon may be termed a vice-president. Sense goes a great way in a political argument, but yet we have noticed that cents take a back seat when dollars have the floor.

It is a little singular, but it is true all the same, that if Dr. Talmage were to quit the pulpit he would be an ex-pounder of the Bible.—Texas Siftings.

Bankrupt's Wife. "Well, at any rate, the Thompson failure was worse than ours." Sympathizing Friend. "Why, I thought it was just the other way." Bankrupt's Wife. "No, indeed; Edward only failed for ten cents on the dollar, while Mr. Thompson failed fifty!"—Hanley H. Pike, in Editor's Drawer of Harper's Magazine for May.
