

THE HERALD.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1889.

D. L. GRACE, NELLIE GRACE, Editors.

THE HERALD, the Free Press and a complete set of Dickens' works, twelve volumes, for only $3.50.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE for Thanksgiving is full of entertainment for the ladies, from cover to cover. Only $3.60 this year (instead $3.75, as last year) for THE HERALD and the Magazine.

We have been reading the Toledo Blade the past year, and find it a good, well written, entertaining weekly visitor that we gladly recommend to our readers. HERALD and Blade, both one year each, for only $3.25.

The ladies of Harney valley will be glad to know they can get their old favorite, Peterson's Magazine for 1890, on even better terms than last year, only $3.60. The Thanksgiving number is in our Reading Room, and is beautifully gotten up in every direction.

ALDRIDGE, of the Prineville News, gets mad at THE HERALD, when it occasionally, refutes his misrepresentations of facts about the people of Harney valley, and replies in a strain such as only a man whose society has been rejected by gentlemen, can write—our mistake lay in believing it possible his paper might have an influence among its readers in Crook county.

Mr. C. M. Caldwell, one of the prominent men of Burns, tarried here to-day on his way home from the Portland Exposition. He is an enthusiastic Burns man; says his town will be the county seat; that next year's political battle will be Swamp Land vs. Settler, and that the latter will win; that the officers of the land office are giving general satisfaction and that Mr. Harbison, the special agent, talked just right when he said to give the settler the benefit of the doubt in every case. Mr. Caldwell has a gold medal of which he is very proud showing him to be a veteran of Co. F., California cavalry, that did good service in the Mexican war.

The Vale Atlas contains the above editorial notice, which contains a hint that in the coming Harney county election party lines will be ignored for the purpose of exciting a struggle between Stockmen and Settlers, that can directly benefit only a few land attorneys, while the result will be to retard the settlement of the county for years, and bring bloodshed (which has been successfully averted to date), into a conflict that otherwise can be quietly and amicably decided in the interest of the complete settlement of the Harney country.

Portland Rural Spirit: Mr. F. A. Horning, of Corvallis, has this year had two trees of almonds bearing, and local judges pronounce them excellent.

Albany Democrat: Dr. Busey says that children should sing an hour a day, as a preventive of consumption. Vocal music is gymnastic exercises of the lungs by development of the lung tissue itself.

Corvallis Gazette: Col. Hogg and party left, Oct. 17th, for New York. They went by east side overland route to San Francisco, thence East.

It is learned that Col. Hogg before his departure for the East, purchased of the syndicate, who owns West Yaquina, one half of all the land owned by them.

Silver State: A match race, three-eighths of a mile, for $100 between Ed. Williams' horse, "Jew," and J. W. Dowell's "Dew Drop," came off over the Winnemucca course on 21st. The horses lapped on the start and were neck and neck at the finish, "Jew" having been declared the winner by six inches; time 36 1/2 seconds. Another race between the same horses is arranged for tomorrow.

Ashland Record: A. J. Colvin, who is now a resident of Summer Lake, Lake county, has been in the valley for several days in company with five or six of his neighbors after supplies.

A large number of cattle are being shipped from Eastern Oregon, via The Dalles to points in California. A car load of horses passed through this week en route for Kansas, which was also shipped from The Dalles.

Lakeview Examiner: At Lakeview, Oct. 11th, to the wife of C. A. Cogswell, a son. The judge says the young democrat yelled for Cleveland, first thing.

Rat Smith, from Indian valley, passed through town yesterday, with several wagons and some fine horses, on his way to Harney valley to locate.

It seems pretty certain that Fort Klamath is to be abandoned, after all the talk otherwise. A Bidwell soldier, on his way home Sunday, said that the military telegraph line was advertised to be sold soon, which will end the matter as soon as the corporal's guard there now, is moved.

Prineville News: It is often said that "murder will out," but it does seem this old saying is sometimes slow in being verified. In Crook county within the past few years a number of crimes have been committed which are shrouded in mystery and seem liable so to remain. For instance, not less than a half dozen fires have occurred in the county the past two years, which were undoubtedly incendiary, yet there has not been a single instance in which the person that kindled the fire has been convicted, and in most cases it has been impossible to even guess who the incendiaries were. And again, the disappearance last May of Geo. Nutting, generally conceded to have been the work of an assassin, is still a mystery, the parties who are most interested in discovering his murderer have abandoned the search entirely. When such crimes as these can be committed and the closest investigation fail to discover the perpetrators, it seems there is little protection to life or property. But there seems to be no remedy, since men do not call in witnesses when they commit crime, and if they have sense enough to keep their mouths shut after it is done they are usually safe from detection.

A report was circulated on the streets Thursday morning that the driver, on the line between The Dalles and Bake Oven, upset his stage, last Thursday, and was killed. Jim Delevan, the driver who came in here Thursday night, says the stage was found turned over and the driver was dead—drunk.

To keep posted Read THE HERALD.

"Peterson's" Thanksgiving number is among the handsomest of the November magazines. The numerous illustrations are excellent, from the beautiful steel-engraving to the double fashion-plate. The literary contents are exceptionally strong. Frank Lee Benedict's serial is one of his best, and Alice Maud Ewell's "Wychem's Ordinary," is the finest and most dramatic of her productions. Howard Seely has a capital sketch, "A Thanksgiving in the Southwest," to which an illustrated story, "At Cross-Cut Farm," makes an admirable contrast. "Out of the Night," by Elizabeth Phipps Train, is a beautiful tale of the Halloween. Minna Irving contributes one of the loveliest lyrics we have read from her pen, and Mrs. Marion E. Pickering's poem, "Thanksgiving Day," is a gem. Miss Elisabeth Scovill, the Newport Hospital superintendent, gives a valuable paper on the treatment of burns. The needlework department offers any number of charming designs for holiday-presents. "Peterson" has a wonderful hold on its subscribers. Once taken, always taken, seems to be the rule in regard to it. And no wonder! for it is in every respect a thoroughly first-class periodical. The prospectus for next year promises new contributors, new and larger type, and various other attractions, which cannot fail to keep "Peterson" far in advance of all the ladies' magazines. Terms: $2.00 a year. Club rates: Two copies for $3.50; three copies for $4.50 with a handsome premium to the getter-up of the club; four copies, $6.50; six copies, $9.00, with an extra copy of the magazine to the getter-up of the club. For larger clubs, still greater inducements are offered. Address Peterson's Magazine, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa. A sample copy will be sent to anyone desiring to get up a club.

A Small Library for $3.50.

You can get the local newspaper, EAST OREGON HERALD, the best family paper, The Detroit Free Press, one year each, and 12 volumes, in paper covers, of the best English novelist's works, Charles Dickens, by calling at, or sending to this office, $3.50.

As promised, we give our readers the account of the stage robbery so soon as obtained. The following is from the Grant County News: Last Friday morning, 18th inst., about day-light, the stage which left Canyon City the morning before, was stopped by a masked highwayman and robbed of all the registered mail matter, at the identical spot in which the robbery of three years ago was committed. W. R. Piper, recently from the East, was driving and the following interview by the reporter of the Daily Democrat, of Baker City, describes the situation in the driver's own words, and the initiation of the "tender-foot" into the ways of the wild and woolly West: "The stage had just crossed Union creek and was approaching a hill with the horses in a slow trot, when suddenly a man stepped out from behind a huge rock and leveling a pistol, I suppose a six shooter from its size, at me, said, 'hold on! hold on!' I instantly took in the situation, and the stories I had read about highwaymen flashed through my mind and I pulled up rein and stopped the horses. The robber then commanded me to turn my head away from him and look up, and then coming to the stage said: 'Have you any mail bags in the wagon?'"

"Yes," I answered. "Have you any express packages?" he again asked. "No." "Well, then," said he, "throw out mail bags." I immediately complied with the request, picked up one sack in the boot and one behind me, and threw them out on the left hand side of the stage, where the robber was, all the time having my head turned from him. He cut the straps on the sacks and dumped the mail out on the ground, and after assorting out the registered packages put the balance of the mail in the sacks and deposited them in the stage with the remark: "Go on, drive fast, and don't look back."

"I whipped up the horses, and you bet, I didn't look back. I was only too glad to get out of the way of that dangerous looking pistol."

"Can you describe the highwayman, Mr. Piper?" asked the reporter. "I can somewhat accurately, but I did not see him any length of time. He was about 5 feet 6 inches in height; weight about 135 pounds; medium well dressed with black suit, and I think his hat was black; had a harsh strong voice; was masked with a black nubia or scarf."

"Did the highwayman appear much excited while doing the work?" asked the reporter. "Not at all," said Mr. Piper. "From his actions I should suppose he was an old hand at the business. He held that pistol on me without a quiver."

"Was you much excited, Mr. Piper?" "Well I must confess I was. It was a hard position for anyone to be placed in. When his shrill voice rang out on the morning air, it made my blood run cold, and I could feel my hat raise from my head. I thought one time I'd look around and take a parting glance at him, but perhaps, my better judgment prevailed and I did not, at any rate I am satisfied with the result, as I am alive and well."

Mr. Piper on his arrival in Baker, notified the officers, and preparations were at once instituted to apprehend the daring highwayman, but it will probably turn out as the subsequent robberies, without effecting a capture. Still the reward of $1000 recently offered by the government for the capture of stage robbers ought to be an incentive for active work in this case, and we confidently believe if good detective work is performed, the culprit will be brought to justice, and it is about time. This is the fourth robbery of this stage line within three years, and the robber on each occasion has eluded capture.

READERS, if you would combat the evil tendencies association with the world at large develops in your children, give them a bountiful supply of good literature; ordinary, "cheap" reading matter is like "cheap clothing," not worth the purchase money. THE HERALD has made it a point to not only furnish its readers with pure reading throughout the year (even refusing a line of paying advertising commonly exhibited in church periodicals) in its own columns, but to secure for them and its Reading Room, the choicest literature put on the market, on terms lower than can be obtained from the publishers, postmasters or agent. In this way the publishers of THE HERALD have the past two years furnished some of the most intelligent and refined families in East Oregon with enough reading to do them the entire years of 1888 and 1889, at the price of one city daily; and our zeal in this work has induced publishers to offer us better rates for 1890 than hitherto.
