Care sits heavy on my brow; All the world seems dark and dreary, Life's a waste of sorrow now. I look forward to a country, To a city with foundations Far beyond these suffering lands.

Long I've wandered sorrowing, sighing, Seeking rest, but finding none; One by one my days are flying, Soon will life's said course be run. Soon my feet shall reach the river, Cr. ssing to return no more; Sailing to that distant haven On the far off heavenly shore.

One by one earth's joys have left me, One by one its hopes have field: Many a time has death bereft me, Oft i've soothed a dving led. Oft "the silver cord has loosened." Bearing home some loving tie: Oft "the golden howl has broken." As some friend lay down to die.
