CLIPPINGS FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

Hay is selling in Harney valley, in the stack, for $1.75 per ton. Too low.—Malheur Gazette.

Seven of the best looking men in this county called at this office last Monday and paid up their subscription. Others can improve their appearance (in our estimation) by doing likewise.—Prineville News.

The wreck of the Brother Jonathan has been found several miles from Point St. George in 100 fathoms of water. The water being so deep and the pressure so great makes it doubtful about ever being able to raise the vessel.

Ally has a real romance. The beautiful and accomplished Miss Mary Schlosser, aged 19 years, eloped with a cab driver named Julius Schmidt.

The Democrat says: "Schmidt is a genuine libertine of the most debased character.

Whisper it low! Didn't Boss Simon and all the great leading light intellects of Portland have a hand in framing the Oregon tax and usury laws? They made those laws and got hit. What are they kiddy cays uses? They are being half-broke on their own invention.—Salem Journal.

A singular case was before the circuit court at Pendleton, recently. E. O. Casey asked for $10,000 damages from his cousin Benjamin Casey, for alienation of the affections of his wife. Mrs. E. O. Casey was sworn, and on the witness stand acknowledged her intimacy with the defendant. The men are well known farmers living north of Pendleton.

Pittsburg, September 26.—Captain Trimbleton of the Seventh United States Cavalry, Commandant of Fort Sill, passed through Pittsburg. He says the great Indian uprising of recent times is certain to come soon. The Indians have got an idea that a great medicine man is coming to wipe out the whites and restore to them the ownership of the country. The result is they have entered with the fervor of fanatics upon a series of cantations and religious orgies. Five thousand Indians about Fort Sill have renounced Christianity, and he is certain in a short time somebody will pretend to be the expected great medicine man, and then the trouble will begin. He thinks all the United States garrisons should be doubled.—S. F. Examiner.

Chicago, Sept 18.—Paul Alexander Johnstone, the mind-reader, performed this afternoon a feat which to all appearances disproves the story that the man possesses five senses, and also a belief that mind-reading is really a species of muscle-reading. In the presence of a large audience at the Washington hotel, Johnstone was blindfolded, his ears and nostrils stuffed with cotton, and a lighted cigar placed in his mouth to destroy, for the time being, hearing, sight, smell and taste. Gloves were placed on his hands. He then requested the proprietors of the hotel to stand behind him and think of the combination of the safe. This was done, and without contact with the men the mind reader turned, correctly told all the numbers, and opened the safe.

Do you know the exact location of the center of the Union? Never thought anything about it, probably. Well, it is marked by a grave—that of Maj. Ogden of the United States Army, who died at Fort Riley, Kan., in 1855, during the cholera epidemic of that year. The remains of the major were moved to Fort Leavenworth and buried in the National cemetery there, but this monument still stands upon a little knoll to the northeast of the fort—Fort Riley—and it lifts its head towards the clouds in the exact geographical center of the United States. Of the thousands of men who have been located at Fort Riley during the past forty years, perhaps not one in a hundred knew or cared anything about the oddity of his situation. The post is a few miles east of Junction City, Kan., and was formerly, one of the most important in the United States.—St. Louis Republic.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Representative Caswell to-day reported favorably from the Committee on Judiciary the Senate bill to amend the laws in reference to bigamy and the restriction in the ownership of churches to real estate above a fixed value. The bill has particular reference to the charter of the Latter Day Saints, whose charter was forfeited in 1857. The proceeds of the sale of its real estate were turned over to the School Fund, but no provision was made for the disposition of the personal property of the corporation, which amounts to nearly $400,000, and is awaiting the action of the courts. The committee deems it wise to let the money take the same course as that derived from the sale of the real estate, and place it in the School Fund.

Vienna, Sept. 25.—The horrible deed of a grief-demented mother was made public to-day. Helene Muller, wife of a master painter, in Moedling, near this city, lost her only child, a boy two years old, by diphtheria in February last after an illness of only one day. The suddenness of the death appeared to paralyze the mother's brain and make it entirely impossible for her to realize that the child was dead. Of late she has devoted almost every hour of the day to sitting on the baby's grave and holding imaginary conversations with the dead child. One morning a week ago the sexton discovered that the grave had been opened, the coffin lid taken off and the body stolen by the mother, who had taken it to her home, wrapped in a shawl and placed it in a trunk. During the day she had taken it out and caressed it, and at night while her husband slept she had taken it to bed with her and endeavored to infuse warmth into it.—S. F. Examiner.

Among the summer boarders at Cliffwood Grove, near Keyfort N. J., were Miss Emily Duncan, 23, and Dayton D. Crossbey, 30. Some days ago Miss Duncan and Mr. Crossbey attended a church picnic, and during the day it was proposed to have a mock marriage. Miss Duncan was persuaded to act as bride and Mr. Crossbey was selected as groom. A solemn young man, a stranger to most of those present, was called upon to officiate as minister. A supposed mock marriage was then performed, and during the remainder of the day Miss Duncan was saluted as Mrs. Crossbey. It is now known that the man who performed the ceremony was none other than Rev. Homesfred of the church of the United Brethren of Kansas City. When the report was first circulated that the ceremony had been performed by a regular minister, Miss Duncan and Mr. Crossbey made light of the matter and supposed that their friends were trying to have a little fun at their expense. Miss Duncan, however, became suspicious, and on making inquiries learned that a regular marriage ceremony had been performed, and that she was the lawful wife of Mr. Crossbey. The latter, when he learned of the true state of affairs, showed much confusion, and apparently was entirely ignorant of Mr. Homesfred's identity at the time the ceremony took place. It is probable that steps will be taken to have the marriage set aside.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The regatta of the Varuna Lo-Club of South Park was supported by a tag day which, during the evening about 10 o'clock between McMillan and Bay Ridge. A party of five men and two young women went out for a row in a small boat belonging to the club, and when about opposite Ninety-fourth street, South Brooklyn, one of the men insisted upon going ashore. He declared that he would upset the boat unless they complied with his wishes. He arose and either fell or jumped overboard. He grasped the boat by the gunwale, and was soon overturned, all hands being thrown into the water. A boat was sent from shore, which rescued four men and one woman. The other woman was drowned, and her body was recovered yesterday. The drowned woman has not yet been fully identified, but her name is supposed to be Lizzie O'Kery, a resident of Brooklyn. The body is that of a woman about 22 years old, of prepossessing appearance and well dressed, having a gold watch and chain, with diamonds and other jewelry. The man who capsized the boat is supposed to have reached the shore in safety by swimming, but has not yet been apprehended.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

General John S. Crocker, warden of the District jail at Washington, died on the 14th. He had been warden of the jail for twenty years, and personally supervised the execution of Guitou, the assassin of President Garfield.

All men die poor. The casket never mounts above the tomb, nor is the fabric of a shroud distinguished in the grave. The soul that is born in opulence and the one that has its being in squalor and misery at last pass through the same narrow way into the beyond and share alike the confine that covers their morality from view.

At Portsmouth N. H. September 17th, Fred H. J. Hein, a cooper by trade, blew out his brains after fatally shooting his three daughters and a man by the name of Chas. Taylor. Several months ago Hein's wife left him, and he suspected this man Taylor to be the cause. His troubles preyed upon his mind, and it is supposed he determined to put an end to all.

There is a pond on the hay ranch of Golconda, Col. fed by the waters from the hot springs. This pond has an area of two or three acres, and the temperature of the water is about 85 degrees, and in some places where the hot water bubbles up from the bottom the temperature is almost up to the boiling point. Recently the discovery has been made that this warm lake is littered alive with carp, some of which are more than a foot long. All efforts to catch these with a hook and line have failed, as the fish will not touch the most tempting bait. A few of them have been shot, and, contrary to the general supposition, the flesh was hard and palatable. How the fish got into the lake is a mystery unsolved. Within one foot of it are springs which are boiling hot, and the ranchers in the vicinity use the water to scald hogs in the butchering season.

We are informed that one of the Chinamen who robbed the First National bank has made a confession, and that all accomplices will be arrested and a great portion of the money recovered. Mr. Frank Hill was the first to make the discovery by reason of a suspicious trunk passing through the express office, of which he is agent. He retained the trunk, and this led to unearthing the robbery. At present we are not at liberty to give particulars of the confession; but it is conclusively proved that the burglary was committed by Chinamen haunting a building below the grade of the street, and in direct communication with the hole under the crosswalk where the tunnel was dug. Sheriff Carter took the Chinamen to Portland to identify the robbers, and four warrants of arrest were issued from Justice Shantz court and sent to him.—Times Mountaineer.
