THE CRY OF MILL MEN.
OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW!
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE!
I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 10th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me so much a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, and I was in a very bad way. I was told to try HARTER'S IRON TONIC, and I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days I was happy to state that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

HOME SEEKERS; Look & Listen

Harney County
Is 145 miles long and 90 miles in width. It is a new county, struck off of the Southern part of Grant, by an act of the legislature, February, 1889. It is bounded by Grant, Crook, Malheur and Lake, and runs south to the State line. Population, about 3,000. Taxable property, $1,600,000.

Climate:
Although the altitude is pretty high, the climate is mild. Snow falling to the depth of from six to ten inches in the northern part and in the southern part very little snow. Thousands of cattle, horses and sheep go through the winter without being fed. Wheat, Oats, Barley, Rye, also, the hardy fruits and vegetables, are adapted to the Climate.

Land:
Harney Valley is about 60 miles in length by 35 in width, containing excellent Farming and Hay land; level and smooth, easily cultivated, and sloping gradually toward the lakes, bounding the valley on the south. Happy, Diamond, Blitzen, Catlow, Silvies and Silver Creek valleys, are all a great deal smaller than Harney, but admirably situated for grazing and farming purposes. Thousands of acres of government land still open for settlement in this and other valleys, above mentioned.

Timber:
The mountains in the northern part contain an inexhaustible quantity of Pine and Fir timber for lumbering purposes. All the valleys of the county are surrounded by low foot-hills covered with Juniper, which make excellent fence posts and fire wood.

Water:
The country is well watered, and, if properly utilized, is sufficient for all purposes, including irrigation.

BURNS
Is the County Seat, the largest town in the county. It is situated in the northern part of Harney valley, on the Silvies river, the largest water course in the county. The location is such that Burns will be the leading business place in the valley. The natural advantages are: Its situation on the river, adjacent to the foot-hills, handy to timber and on the proposed line of the O. P. Railroad. The location of the U. S. Land Office is also, another great advantage Burns has, in a business point of view.

Mills, etc.:
We have a flouring mill on the river, near town, and another nearing completion, one mile and half north of town on the river; will soon have a new saw mill erected on the site of the one that burned down, last fall. There are other towns in the county: Harney, situated in the northern part of the valley, near the foot hills, 14 miles east of Burns, well watered and near the timber and within six or seven miles of two saw mills. Drewsey, situated in the eastern part of the county on the Middle Fork of the Malheur river, is surrounded by a good farming community.

Petrified in two Years.
When the body of William Jones which was buried at Corunna, Ind., two years ago, was disinterred, it was found that the body was petrified, with every feature preserved perfectly, even the hair. At the time of burial Jones weighed 180 pounds while his petrified body now weighs 495 pounds. The rock which has taken the place of the flesh seems to be similar to hard limestone.

A New Story
The biggest story of the season comes from Lincoln. Mr. W. T. Murray, who is a merchant of that place, says that while he was a soldier in Virginia he came across a farmer who had just housed a crop of popcorn, and pretty soon after the hands had left the crib it caught fire and every grain of the corn popped, and very soon the whole plantation was covered with the white corn. A mule, about 23 years old, in a barn near by, saw the barn covered with white corn, and, though the thermometer registered 90 degrees in the shade, the mule froze to death, thinking that it was a terrible heavy fall of snow.—Constitution.

She Stopped the Train.
A train in Georgia was lately held up by a lone woman. It had got about 200 yards from a station when a negro woman was seen running frantically after it. The conductor saw her, pulled the bell and the train came to a stop. A colored brakeman stood on the steps and ratched out his hand to help the woman on. But she ran on by, and a negro boy hung himself out of the window and kissed her. The conductor was naturally a little wrathful, and told her so. She told him that her boy was going off, and they didn't give her time to tell him good-bye, and she had to do it if she would have to follow the train ten miles.—Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Cleveland's Strength as a Candidate.
From Harper's Weekly:
Mr. Cleveland is evidently the strong man for the Democratic nomination. The situation is such that there is no other strong candidate, because under the circumstances to abandon Mr. Cleveland is to say that he does not represent Democratic views and policy. But it is because he is supposed to represent them that public confidence has largely returned to his party. That belief made republican defeat easier last fall. If a vote against a Republican candidate for Congress had been thought to be ultimately a vote for Gov. Hill, for instance, many a Republican candidate would have been elected who was defeated. No intelligent Democrat it seems to us, can doubt that Mr. Cleveland would be the strong candidate. But nominations are not logical, and depend upon many things besides the desires and expectation of a party. Indeed, the rule of important nominations is the selection of available candidates and available has a negative significance. It means less a representative leader than a candidate without a record. It takes account of the fact that votes are cast for every kind of petty reason, and assumes that a positive prominent public man has probably made a host of enemies by the very acts and words which have given him distinction. This, however, does not change the fact that the abandonment of Mr. Cleveland as the Democratic candidate would give the greatest possible satisfaction to the supporters of President Harrison.

We are not prepared—the world is not prepared—for the denunciation of either gold or silver, nor can this preparation be brought about without the wiping out of a very large amount of public and private debts. Debts contracted when both metals are used as money would be a burden too heavy to be borne when measured by single standard.—Hugh McCullough in 1877.

Triplets.
Mrs. Pet Davis, of Old Ripley, Ill., gave birth to triplets, all boys. Two weighed four pounds each and one three. Notwithstanding their diminutiveness they are apparently strong and lively.

"I've Spited You, Mamma."
Willie Mendheim, aged 13, became angry with his mother and told her that he was going to commit suicide. His mother merely laughed at the threat. The boy procured a rope and before his mother's eyes made his preparations for death. He fastened the rope to the ceiling and putting the end around his neck, got up in a high chair and jumped. Just before the leap he said: "I have spited you, now, mamma." His neck was broken. His mother saw him as he made the fatal spring.

Over Europe on Stilts.
Sylvia Dornon, shepherd from the neighborhood of Arcachon in France has just set out on a journey on stilts from Paris to Moscow. He belongs to the strong tribe of stilted shepherds, who may be seen all over the Landes in France, conducting their brown flocks of sheep and goats through the boundless marshes, and knitting woolen socks as they stride along or lean propped up against a rock of tree. The stilts upon which Dornon expects to walk 35 miles daily, bring him about 4 1/2 feet from the ground. So expert is he in their use that he can fly along on them at a tremendous pace, and means to be in Moscow on the 42d day out from Paris.

Ten thousand persons accompanied him to the gates of the French capital, singing and cheering him on. At Moscow they have prepared for him a pair of stilts 20 feet high, on which he will make his entry into the Russian city.

It Costs You Nothing.
