A BLOODY DUEL.
Duel to death between Father and Son!
In the backwoods of Maine, in a lumber camp, Saturday, May 23, a terrible tragedy was enacted between father and son.

Two years ago, Peter Lancorai, a French Canadian, from the province of New Brunswick, who kept a small country store, died, leaving his business and some $2,000 to his only child, a daughter named Jeanne. She was then 15 years of age, and on his death-bed the father appointed Jackson Oldershaw, a lumber boss, her guardian until she was 21 years of age. Oldershaw was a widower, with an only son, a young man aged 25. Both father and son were men of passionate, selfish natures and both cast covetous eyes upon young Jeanne and her little fortune. The old man had great influence over the girl, who stood much in fear of him, and it was due to persistent persuasion on his part that she promised to marry him, although she preferred the son. The latter learned of his father's intention and got the girl to promise to elope with him. Saturday night they attempted to steal away while the elder Oldshaw was away, but he returned unexpectedly and caught them in the act. In a fit of rage he drew a revolver and fired at his son, but the girl jumped between them and received the ball in her shoulder.
In falling, she knocked the pistol out of Oldershaw's hand, and he grabbed an ax to save himself from his son, who rushed at him armed with a similar weapon. The two men fought like tigers, both being badly cut, when the elder slipped on the blood which flowed from the girl's wound. While down his son nearly served his head from his body. Oldershaw died instantly and the son fled. The last heard of the girl, she was not expected to live.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment.

Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars reward for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

AN OREGON CYCLONE.
Buildings Torn to Pieces and Several Persons Injured.

Arlington Or., May 28—A cyclone passed over this city yesterday. The large merchandise store of D. S. Sprinkle collapsed under the force of the gale, burying in the ruins Mr. Sprinkle, his wife and N.
S. Baird, of Fairhaven, who happened to be in the store at the time.
They were extricated after considerable difficulty, all receiving more or less injuries. The large building used as a skating rink and opera house is in ruins. It is feared much damage has been done in the country.

MOB LAW.
In Kansas, Near Topeka.

Joseph Bennett, who bought a farm in Washington township, borrowed money from a Jewell City firm to make the first payment and put in his crops. When the note fell due Bennette did not have the money to take them up, and his place was sold by the sheriff. He refused to give possession and was ejected. Joseph Kindesberger then occupied the farm as a tenant of the purchasers Bennett is a member of the farmer's alliance.
Thirty or forty masked men, with Bennett at their head, drew up to the place and requested the new tenant to leave. He refused to do so, whereupon revolvers were drawn and he was told he could either leave at once or his dead body would be carted off. Bennett was then reinstated, and still has the place. Kindesberger has the names of the leaders of the mob, and will institute criminal proceedings against them. The officers in this county are all farmers' alliance men, including the prosecuting attorney.
