

HAS LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY NEWSPAPER IN THIS COUNTY.

Local News.

Mrs. Palmer is very ill. Harry Thompson has been on the sick list for several days. The goods of A. Robbins is being moved into the new building to day. Broady wants to hire a cheap boy to learn him how to play "billiards". The hay crop of our valley is about harvested. The crop is not so large as last year, but the quality is excellent. A county seat "racket" is now on the "tapis" in Sherman county Wash. The contestants are the towns of Moro and Wasco. B. H. Fine, the proprietor of Tex's Resort, invites all that are weary and thirsty, to partake of nice, cool lemonade and Beer. Oregon enjoys the distinction of having the largest cave in the United States if not in the world. This cave is in Josephine county. Kentucky will now come in second. Who is the laziest man in town? Who is the most industrious? Who is the biggest l—r? Who is the most truthful? The second question we can answer ourselves: Editors. Cardwell has a "pendant" for white horses and a chariot. His imagination has already erected one—chariot we mean—to tie to those four white cayuse ponies of his and turn them loose. Stockmen can now get honest weights by shipping or selling stock at Huntington. The O. C. Co. having just completed one of Fairbanks Stock Scales, and arranged a large corral for the purpose. Certified weights given. 4-24. There was a band of Indians on our streets yesterday selling huckleberries and notions. These brutes should be kept on their reservations, as they are killing off the game of this section without mercy. John Day Sentinel. We agree with the Sentinel. What earthly use have we for the dirty, filthy loafers? If they were driven from our country and compelled to remain on their reservations, in a short time our mountains would be well supplied with game. J. H. Phirman deputy sheiff of Wasco county, paid our town and county an official visit this week. His object was to arrest or have arrested; Willam Jordan charged with larceny of a horse. Deputy sheriff Biggs, of this county, made the arrest, last Thursday, at the home of the prisoner's father 18 or 20 miles south of Burns. The lad is a youthful looking boy of about 15 years and has not the appearance of a horse thief, but the contrary, if looks count for anything in "sizin" up an individual, one would take him to be an honest lad. The d—l and the Doctor, would a fishing go; said the d—l to the Doctor, "Why are you so slow?" said the Doctor to the d—l "because its Sunday oh! do you," said he, "man the brake, while I the lines do shake, and if we have no break, we surely will some fishes take, of which we will bake, or roast them on a stake, enough for our stomach's sake." "But of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: It might have been." For the axletree severed, and the d—l delivered a few remarks, that sent the sparks of rocks and hills and along the hills, "Alas! Alas!" the Doctor said, "Woel woel is me, Julian don't you see?" "Yes," Julian said he saw, "accident's will happen," and with ax and saw, he went to work to shapen a stick that could be applied, but when finished it was too late for fishes either baked or fried.

Nick Baker, of Silver Creek, was in town a few days this week. The extremely warm weather is causing some sickness in town. An excellent quality of machine oil at Cal. Geer's Hardware store for $1 a gallon. Team for sale—A span of horses, young, well broke to drive both single and double and to the saddle. Call at this office. When thirsty, call in the saloon of Lewis and Richardson; these courteous gentlemen will serve you nice, cool lemonade or beer. New Stock of Glass, Putty, Paints, Oils, Brushes, etc., at Geer's. No charge for cutting glass if you buy of me. J-1 C. W. Jones, foreman of the LF company, was in town this week accompanied by Mr Gilchrist who is also connected with that association in some way. Dr. Marsden was called last Wednesday night to Drewsey to see a very sick lady. He returned some time Thursday night, and we are informed reports the lady much better. The McGinley troupe will be here next week. This is good news to all who delight in such amusement. The reinforcement to the troupe adds that much more interest and amusement. Every thing in the hardware line, received at Geer's last week. Granite ware, Machine oil, Mechanics tools, Mowing machines, all kinds of harvesting tools, cheaper than dirt, for cash. Ellensburg has a female barber who has been in business for several months. Many incipient beards and mustaches, as a consequence, have been spruted since the advent of this new tonsorial artist.—John Day Sentinel. Dr. H. Boyd announces that he will remain in Burns and practice his profession. We hope he will met with success, and save many valuable lives that, without his timely aid and assistance, would succumb to the ravages of disease. We learn through Mr. P. Cheeney, who came in after Dr. Ashford that a difficulty occurred on Silver Creek yesterday, between George Williams and Gus. Hurlbert, in which the former received 11 stabs given by Hulbert with a small sharp pointed file. The character of the stabs could not be definitely determined until examined by the doctor, who has not yet returned. Notice, in this issue, the premiums offered by the S. F. Examiner. Now is your chance to save 80 cents on two subscriptions, the Herald and the Examiner, regular price $4.00, both can be had for $3.20 besides a premium worth, really, more than the papers and next year is the presidential election and you can not afford to be without a good national paper and the Examiner is just the paper you want. Poultney Bigelow, who was a schoolmate of the German Emperor, will contribute an article to the Midsummer (August) Number of The Century on the first three years of the Emperor's reign—the third anniversary of his ascent to the throne having taken place on the 15th day June. Mr. Bigelow believes that "since Frederick the Great no king of Prussia has understood his business like this emperor," and in this article he gives what he considers the secret of the power of William II. with his people, and incidentally contridutes many facts regarding his life. This number of The Century will be especially rich in illustrated articles and complete stories, and the illustrations of Mr. Bigelow's paper will include a number of views of the palaces at Berlin and Potsdam, and engraved portraits of the Emperor and Empress will form a double frontispiece.

"Big Jim" and the wounded Elk. "Big Jim" yelled, "Hie there! C. A., can't you shoot him?" and the wounded elk stood silently contemplating him from his side of the tree. The situation was as follows: C. A. wounded an elk and "Big Jim" who was in company with him on a fishing and hunting excursion, and entirely innocent of any demonstrations or effort on his part to injure the elk, being rather corpulent and upon all occasions consulting his own ease and comfort like Sir John Falstaff in the Merry Wives of Windsor. But instead of the elk, after receiving the shot, making war on the true cause of his suffering, he made for "Big Jim," who took refuge behind a tree as quickly as size and circumstances would permit, fear lending aid to his big feet and corpulent person; hence the above exclamation. C. A. stood regarding the couple with rather a quizzical expression of countenance as if he thought it would be glorious fun to see the two fight it out on the dead square. "Big Jim" had no gun, and he was too badly frightened to use it had he one. Jim feeling that, if rescued at all, from what he supposed to be, a perilous condition, he must look for it from some other source than that of C. A., who was now convulsed with laughter. "Oh, God!" said Jim, "I wish Bozy was here," and cast his eyes in the direction of Burns as if he thought that individual might come to his assistance. C. A., knowing from the appearance of the elk he had his death wound and was already too far gone to injure Jim, hollowed to him to get his big paunch behind the tree and he would again fire at the elk or if the tree weren't large enough to cover that conspicuous part of his anatomy, to lie down and roll out of the way of the animal. He was immediately advised by the terrified Jim to try the rolling process over the rocks himself, and see how he would like it. At this moment the dying elk fell to its knees. Jim thinking it had taken that position to give greater force to the lunge he expected it to make at him, fell over backwards to the utter destruction of about one fourth of an acre of sage brush; this was too much for C. A., who dropped his gun threw up his hat and yelled "first blood for Sullivan." Maybe it was well for C. A. that he was out of "Big Jims" reach, but Jim raised himself on his elbow, saw the prostrate form of his enemy, began laughing himself, and begged of C. A. not to tell, which he readily promised, and of course he kept his word. Mrs. Millon's Ride. When Mrs. Millon goes to ride she travels forth in state, Her horses, full of fire and pride, go prancing from the gate. But all the beauties of the day she views with languid eye, Her flesh in weakness wastes away, her voice is but a sigh. For Mrs. Millon is in an advanced stage of catarrh, and all the luxuries that wealth can buy fail to give her comfort. She envies her rosy waiting-maid, and would give all her riches for that young woman's pure breath and blooming health. Now, if some true and disinterested friend would advise Mrs. Millon of the wonderful merits of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, she would learn that her case is not past help. $500 reward is offered by the manufacturers for a case of catarrh in the head which they cannot cure.
