On Wednesday afternoon, July 23th, the Hardisty Hotel at Long Creek, was entirely destroyed by fire. J. J. Pierson, whose photograph gallery was next door to the hotel, met with a loss of $250. The Hardisty Hotel was valued at $1500 and the loss of furniture $750, aggregating $2500 loss. No insurance.

Quite a number of boys in Baker City have lately been detected at wholesale stealing. It seems there is a regular organization consisting of not only youths of the lower class but all classes, calling themselves "pirates." A cave made by them somewhere on the river near town, was the receptacle of their stolen plunder. Several of them have been caught and a fine of from $25 to $50 imposed, which their parents had to pay.

Dr. Embree is going to our State Fair. He will start from here about the middle of this month. While absent he expects to do some good work for our county and particularly desires small bundles of our cereals to take with him to expose at the fair as Harney county products. If the readers of the HERALD will bring in and give at this office small bunches of bundles of grain, labeled with their names, we will take pleasure in delivering the same to the doctor.

Deputy sheriff M. R. Biggs, in company with L. Bosenberg, left Burns Monday noon for Harney or the neighborhood of that town, having been informed that a horse thief who is wanted at Lakeview could be found there. His name is Jacob Nall and he is now behind the bars. The boys succeeded in nabbing him but he made an effort to retain his freedom by trying to out run the officers but the race on his part was a failure.

In this issue we publish a fire that destroyed $2500 dollars worth of property at Long Creek. Had that town been properly equipped to fight the flames, which were discovered immediately after catching, there is but little doubt, but that the fire could have been suppressed before doing much damage. Burns is—just as Long Creek—situated to receive a damaging fire and, just as Long Creek, no fire engine, no fire company, no nothing prepared to fight the conflagration. Less than half the loss at Long Creek will equip our town with a fire-company and engine so that our citizens will feel comparatively safe. "A word to the wise is sufficient" but when wisdom was being meted out Burns was on a drunk and failed to receive her quota.

DIED—August 1st Mrs. Cordelia A. Palmer at the residence of her brother-in-law A. C. Worthington of Burns. The deceased's home was in Iowa, she came here in March of this year to visit her sister and also hoping the climate would benefit her health. During her sojourn among us she made a host of friends. Mrs. Palmer was a native of Keokuk county Iowa. A teacher of 12 years experience and ranked among the foremost educators of her native state. She taught a term of 3 months, here, on Poison creek, the patrons of the school recognizing her worth as a teacher were anxious to contract with her for the fall and winter terms, but she desiring to return home this fall would only contract for the fall term. She leaves a little boy six years old a father and mother one sister and three brothers, besides many friends to mourn her loss. Every attention was given the deceased, the best medical skill was employed, and loving care and devoted attention was freely given to alleviate the sufferings of her last days by her many friends here who deeply sympathise with the bereaved relatives. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Embree. [The Keokuk county papers are requested to copy]

Card of thanks.

We desire to return our heartfelt thanks to the many friends who so kindly and generously assisted us, and so freely gave their time and aid during the long and fatal illness of our sister Mrs. Palmer. Could her distant father, mother, brothers and other sister have witnessed the loving care and untiring devotion of so many friends, we feel assured it would soften the blow that has fallen upon them as it does to us in losing our loved one.

Chairman Watson of the state central republican committee of Kan. has announced that the republican party will probably have a candidate for the gubernatorial chair in the field this fall. Although the supreme court has decided that Thaver can hold over, legal opinions are so varied on this point that it is decided best to be on the safe side. The alliance and democratic parties will also have gubernatorial nominees on their tickets.

The custom followed by many of the counties of the neighboring state of Washington in bonding their indebtedness, has its merits, says the Jacksonville Times. It relieves the present generation from bearing alone the burden of developing the country, and makes posterity, or its equivalent, pay a certain proportion of the cost of the many benefits they derive from the labors of the pioneers. It has the effect of making current county warrants pass at their face value instead of a ruinously heavy discount to which they are often subjected under the system followed in this state, and the county derives a direct benefit from the fact for all services rendered it gets the benefit of actual cash rates and cash competition.

Governor Campbell and Major McKinley, the two leaders in the Ohio campaign, are the warmest kind of personal friends.

In the evening after the re-nomination of Gov. Campbell, his wife said to him:

"James, I should like to take a ride with the next governor of Ohio this evening."

"All right, my dear," he replied, "I am perfectly willing."

That evening Governor Campbell joined his wife in her carriage, and when the driver inquired which direction he should take, the governor replied, to the Neil house. Having arrived there Mr. Campbell jumped out, and, after ascertaining the number of Major McKinley's rooms, called upon the republican leader, and invited him to ride. Major McKinley was much pleased to accept the invitation. The two gentlemen then proceeded to the carriage, and, as the major was stepping in, Campbell remarked:

"Major, my wife told me to-day that she wanted to take a drive with the next governor of Ohio, and I am perfectly willing that she should. With this, Campbell withdrew, wishing the couple a pleasant ride. —Lake County Examiner.
