It was a Tame Rattlesnake.

Rattlesnakes are not at all plentiful on Staten Island, and when James Gardner saw a big one crossing a lonely road not far from Silver Lake the other day he hastened to kill it. He says it required great caution and some bravery to batter its life out with his heavy walking-stick, for the reptile countered with lightning rapidity. At last, however, it lay dead in the dust, and when Mr. Gardner found that it was 7-feet long he abandoned his first intention of cutting off its eight rattles, and he brought it all back to Stapleton, where he stretched it out on a bar-room floor and proudly showed it to a dozen Staten Islanders. The islanders were willing to join him as often as he pleased in "wetting" the snake at the bar, but he could not drown or befuddle the truth that was in them, and they maintained to a man that there were no rattlers on Staten Island.

The thing was a mystery until the bar-tender suddenly remembered that Dairyman John Duckett had lately missed a pet rattlesnake that had been given to him five years ago. Duckett was summoned to the bar-room, and he almost cried when he saw the dead snake, which he at once recognized as his own. He said it had endeared itself to every member of his family. On Sunday he had carried it away to show it to a friend, who lives between Stapleton and Silver Lake, and on the road it escaped from its box. He valued it at $25, but he accepted $5, and allowed Mr. Gardner to take the rattles, while he secured the skin.—N. Y. Sun.

A very Grave Charge

At Parkersburg, W. Va., a tramp named William Downey was arrested for the murder of Mrs. Henry Cosert and her son Jopling, the burning of the bodies of the victims and of the victims' home, and the robbery of $1000 in gold. The scene of the tragedy was in Raleigh county. The family was a thrifty one and lived in a solitary place. Mrs. Cosert had a great liking for gold, and turned all she saved into it. For years she had been hoarding her savings at her house, and had accumulated about $1000. The charred remains of herself and son were found by a passer-by, who saw the smoking timbers of what was once their home. The community is much excited and would lynch the tramp if the evidence against him was stronger.

The Walla Walla Lynching.

Corporal Clarence Arnold and Private Charles E. Trumpower, of Troop D, Fourth Cavalry, have been taken to the military prison, Alcatraz island. They were implicated in the killing of A. J. Hunt. Corporal Arnold was in charge of the carbines, and the charge against him was allowing the men to take the guns, and further for going out to the jail and helping to take Hunt out with the intent to kill him. Trumpower was recognized as one of the jail-breakers. The sentence of Arnold was that he be dishonorably discharged and be confined at such place as reviewing authority may direct for eight years. Trumpower received the same sentence, except that his term was for five years.

Campbell Sues the Paper for $100,000.

The Evening Post has the following special from Washington: "As a fitting sequel to the sensation caused by the libelous attack on Governor Campbell by the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette comes the news from Cincinnati that General Henry V. Boynton, who has been connected with the Gazette and the Commercial Gazette for a quarter of a century, is to retire. The story comes from Cincinnati that the policy of the new management seems to be to make it ultra-sensational, and their endeavor will be to reorganize their correspondents corps everywhere on that basis.

Governor Campbell, through his attorneys in Cincinnati, has filed two suits for damages against the Commercial Gazette, each for $50,000. Both are based on publications concerning the Governor's indebtedness and his payment of expenses of a Democratic club from Columbus to Cleveland at the time of his nomination. It is said that he contemplates proceeding also to bring a similar charge against the managing editor of the paper.

At Greenup Ill., Oct. 8, while a balloon ascension was taking place at the fair ground, Alex. Gordon, a country youth, tried to jump across the ropes attached to the parachute. They caught his feet and dragged him feet uppermost. In his struggles to escape he caught the rope that releases the parachute. This threw Gordon and the professional aeronaut to the earth, about eighty feet, killing the aeronaut, William Kiser of Louisville, Ky., and breaking Gordon's leg and arm and otherwise injuring him.

A man in Missouri predicts a hard winter. There will be much cold weather and many deep snow storms. He is a "weather sharp" and his predictions have been in the main correct heretofore.

Hon. Harvey Watterson, father of the brilliant editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, died a few days ago in his eightieth year. He was the last surviving member of the twenty-sixth congress.

President Harrison has sent his check for $5000 to the republican committee in New York to assist in carrying the state for J. Sloat Fassett and "Me Too" Platt.
