WEDNESDAY JUNE 22, 1892.

W. C. BYRD - - - - - Editor.

THE Minneapolis National Republican Convention has done its work and the g o p. banked on Benjamin Harrison and Whitelaw Reed. Ex Governor Foraker of Ohio when asked how he accounted for the strength of President Harrison's support, answered it was easily enough accounted for when the fact, of an army of 100,000 office holders paid to back him, was taken into consideration, and it was not overstating the case that no administration of the republican party had ever used the official power in its hands more vigorously.

There is nothing more certain, than victory to the democratic party in the next presidential election if only the National convention will use discretion and good sound judgment in the selection of our standard bearers. The disappointment occasioned by the defeat of Jas. B. Blaine, who has been undoubtedly the head center and ruling power of the republican party, his friends are very much hurt and have a cause, and especially when the fact of Harrison's hirings through whom he got his nomination is considered, the discord and dissatisfaction in the republican ranks will surely be seen in the election this fall, if the Democratic National Convention lets wisdom and judgement control

THE Items in last week's issue, not forgetful of services rendered by the people's organization; humbly acknowledges its debt of gratitude. Which we presume is mete and proper, but nevertheless an admonition, from its editor to his own party would have been more in place admonishing the party of the importance of better organization, a warning which our party should take advantage of, and clubs be organized in every precinct in the county, so that our strength politically may be determined and questions and issues continually arising discussed and such other measures of importance considered, each club through its secretary keeping a record and giving all other clubs in the county such information of the wishes of his club as deemed of importance and for the good and advancement of democracy in our county.

THE Farmers Alliance Representatives are to be given an opportunity

nity to have their say on the Sub-treasury bill, as the bill will shortly be reported to the House by the Ways and Means committee, and it is understood that the committee on Rules will set aside three days after the appropriation bills are all passed for its debate

ARIZONA and New Mexico will soon read their titles clear as sovereign States of the Union, if the republican Senators do not prevent action on the bills which have been passed by the House.
