THERE is certainly one way in which Senator Dolph and President Harrison resemble each other. They have failed to learn that brevity is a virtue. A speech or message that occupies over a page of a newspaper in fine print will not be read by one man in twenty.—Telegram.

FOOD AND DAIRY COMMISSION.

Two Essentials for Baking Powder that will make Perfect Bread.

The late report of the Minnesota State Food and Dairy Commission contains the result of a series of experiments made by Prof. Drew, State Chemist, to determine the strength and keeping qualities of the various powders.

The report attaches great importance to these experiments. Baking powders that vary in strength, or that readily lose strength before using, are unreliable and will not give even results; besides, it is an indication of the use of improper ingredients in their compounding. The tests showed the strength or leavening power of the Royal very much greater than that of the others. The uniformity of strength of all the samples of Royal tested, no matter what their age, was remarkable. Its leavening power was practically unimpaired even in the oldest specimens. The difference in the amount of leavening gas in different samples of the other brands was so great as to seriously impair their usefulness in baking. As much as 24 per cent loss was found in sample a few months old. All the samples of Royal examined by State Chemist Drew were reported of satisfactory strength and quality.

Dr. Drew states that the "Royal" being of greater strength than any other, and possessing better keeping qualities, it is the natural conclusion that it is the best baking powder made.
