A Eugene girl recently found a lot of love letters written by her father to her mother many years before they were married. The daughter read them to her mother pretending they were of recent date, and substituted that of her own name for that of her mother's, and the name of a young man well known to both, for her father's. The mother was very much disgusted, and has forbidden her daughter to go with a young man that will write such nonsense and sickening stuff. —Medford Mail.

One Editor in Heaven.

Somebody says that there is said to be one editor in heaven. How he got there is not positively known, but it is conjectured that he passed himself off for a minister and stepped in unsuspected. When the dodge was discovered they searched the realms of felicity in all their length and breadth for a lawyer to draw up the papers for his rejection, but they could not find one and of course he held the fort.

—E. Brown, of Diamond, was registered at the Burns Friday last.

It is FUNNY how people discover the importance and influence of a newspaper when they get in a row or do something they are ashamed of. They live for years without subscribing, and when asked to advertise say: "It doesn't pay; no one reads the paper." But the minute they get into a racket they rush to the newspapers and request them not to say anything about it, or in case of trouble in which their name happens to be mentioned, then they realize that the paper has a circulation, and they don't want their name published all over. —Decoto Star.

What Editors Come To.

The following poem won for its author the editor of the Rocky Mountain Celt the prize of $1,000 offered for the best appeal poem to newspaper readers to pay their subscription: "Loves of poor men oft remind us honest men won't stand no chance; the more we work there grow behind us bigger patches on our pants. On our pants once new and glossy now are stripes of different hue all because subscriber linger and don't pay us what is due. Then let us be up and doin send in your mite however small o when the snow of winter strikes u we shall have no pants at all." —Conneautville [Pa.] Courier.

"Don't lock up your cash" is the substance of the composite opinion of the country's press, and it's good advice. Keep your money in circulation, if you can't find anything better to do with it, pay your newspaper subscription. Then it will be certain not to get locked up. —Baker City Democrat.
