Dedicated to Men Without Respect to Age, Married or Unmarried, Condition or Circumstances.

The Indian will stalk along either in front or behind his squaw, she bearing the burden, whatever it may be, he with his arms folded contemplating the beauties of nature, priding himself in his superiority and influence over the opposite sex.

In what respect are they superior to the Indian? I answer in no respect whatever except a little more refinement. Your intelligence women are not allowed to question. Your actions in the walks of daily life must not be impugned or criticised by your wife, sweetheart or any of our sex.

And why? Because that aboriginal idea is paramount in your nature, that controls the steps of the Indian, brutal force.

You expect of us quiet submission, and a refined christian, chaste, pure life. And what is demanded of you? Answer: Nothing

If your intellectual ability is superior to ours why is it that your sinful inclinations are not curbed by you to the same extent of our sex. The "old Adam" is in us, to the same degree of yourselves, our inclinations and temptations are as yours, we are not free from a proneness to indulge in frivolities and propensities peculiar to the human family.

Can men give any good reason why we should be better than they? But you answer we are under your care and protection. How flimsy; It's a poor protection that can not protect itself. Our would be protectors cannot even resist the smallest temptation.

Is it manly to smoke tobacco and chew it? Still our protectors can not resist the temptation. Does it show firmness, a strong mind and intellectual ability to set in a saloon and play cards or billiards by the hour for amusement, or the drinks or for money, and your wife at home mending your old clothes or washing dishes?

How manly it looks, in these great immaculate protectors of women, to step up to a whiskey counter and cry out: Come up boys and drink at my expense I've got the cash! When may be your wife is greatly in need of many things that would add to her comfort and pleasure. But still these manly fellows who expect so much of us can not resist the temptation.

The profanity and blackguardism of our noble protectors, is proverbial still they cannot resist the temptation to indulge.

I have given you a picture of yourselves. How do you like it? you know it is correct diagnosis of your case. Dont you feel proud of your self and thank me for so true an analysis of character.

What a nice pattern you are and example for your wives, daughters and sweethearts to immitate.

What great protectors of women society and morals you "Greatness" es" are. How worthy you are to be called the king of beasts and the unscrupulous masters of women. You should feel proud of your standing and your ability to resist the sinful temptations of this life. your modesty your refinement and especially the example you set before us as our protectors. Protectors; How flat and unmeaning the word sounds when used in the foregoing sense.

SOPHIE.

CONGRESS convened the first Monday in December and the different committees have prepared the work for that assembly to consider immediately after the holidays. The people hope for and expect relief at the hands of the present congress.

That congress has been for a number of years legislating favorable to corporations in direct opposition to the interest and welfare of the laborer and producer, no one can successfully deny.

Now the people take the grounds that corporations can take care of themselves, and implore our law making power to legislate more in the interest of the people and government.

The crisis we have gone through but still feel the effects of, is by many blamed entirely to this being a democratic administration.

Why is it that people cannot learn to call black, "black" and white "white?" No man of good sense and proper reason will throw the present state of affairs, financially, at the feet of this democratic administration.

The republicans know the record of their party too well to reasonably accuse the democratic party of the wrongs perpetrated by themselves. What the people want now and must have, is quick relief from the financial stringency now pressing the producer and laborer.

If it takes fifty dollars per capita to carry on the business of this nation and only fourteen dollars of that amount in circulation. How is it possible for the people and government to prosper? If fourteen dollars must do the business of fifty, you must make that fourteen dollars buy fifty dollars worth of material or eighteen twenty fifths of the people do without material and eighteen-twenty-fifths of the business go undone.

It makes one dollar worth thirty six and moreover the dollar in the hands of and under the control of corporations. We will put it this way if a horse is worth fifty dollars and that be the basis per capita for business and sustenance and only fourteen dollars of that amount in circulation at that ratio you get fifty dollars minus eighteen twenty fifths. Then at that ratio you should be able to buy your merchandise, your groceries, here money from these rich corporations, and buy your farms and last but not least—and it's just—pay your debts.

Because if the laborer and producer,—the only classes in any government worth a d—m has to submit to the present thralldom, their debts and obligations should be liquidated at the same ratio.
