DANCING.

DANCING, the prevailing mania of this town is carried to an extent which all good moral respectable citizens know is leading, the wives, daughters, and youths, just growing into manhood, if not directly into the path of licentious immorality and sensual proclivities, it is at least giving rein in a channel of sinful propensities which if not checked will lead many good women to destruction and young men to acquire a taste for recklessness which will finally end in their disgrace and downfall and loss of self-respect, the ruin of their prospects for life as respectable citizens and the bringing of disgrace and sorrow on their families.

How is it possible for respectable parents, men of family to shut their eyes to the fact?

No one is prohibited from attending our dances, and all are admitted as equals and treated as such without regard to character or standing, pimps, gamblers, and drunkards are apparently as much respected as those of undoubted good standing. Drunkenness, swearing and vulgarity are seen and heard in the ball room at every dance.

We live in an atmosphere of drunkenness, licentiousness and immorality.

THE TARIFF BILL.

YESTERDAY was the day set for the committee to report the Wilson tariff bill to the senate.

Of course the free silver amendment of Quay of Penn. will have to be considered, and we only hope it will pass and be made a part of the bill, but its chances are slim, as it is generally believed it will be voted down. Some democrats fear that with this amendment the whole bill if passed will be vetoed by the president, while on the other side of the senate, if the republicans thought it would kill the bill the amendment would be indorsed by them or if that wing of the house were satisfied Cleveland would veto it should it come to him it would only please them the better to make every effort possible to shove it through.

It is generally presumed that the bill will come from the committee in substantially the same form that it came from the house.

There will undoubtedly be a strong opposition to the income tax, but still it is thought it will pass.

It is feared that the numerous amendments offered will materially prolong the progress of the bill, which is to be lamented for the people demand prompt action.

The passage of the bill is intended as a measure of relief and as such its speedy passage is hoped for, and cannot come too soon.

Peckham's Rejection.

THE nomination of Peckham for supreme court judge, has been rejected by the senate. This is the second nomination made by the president for that office that has met with defeat in the senate.

Where the president will lead to timber now is only a matter of conjecture, but he will have to select such as is not of extreme to the enemy, David Hill.

The latter has already feathers in his cap, and has been instrumental in defeating Hornblower and Peckham.
