Bill Nye Visiting.

Bill Nye went a visiting, and while he was gone the bank where his money was deposited went busted. Bill didn't know the bank was gone, so he went up to draw out $500, and this was what he thought: "What was my surprise and indignation to find in place of the bank a nice new book and stationary store. 'And what can I do for you?' asked an urbane man with disheveled whiskers, coming forward. 'You might tell me where the Farmers' and Swappers' bank has gone,' says I, with some warmth 'When I leave a bank on a certain corner and tell it to stay there till I come back, I am not pleased to find when I return that it has taken advantage of my absence to go out and see the town.' 'The Farmers' and Swappers' bank,' said the man, hopes to resume very soon, but of course at present it is closed until it can realize on its collateral.' 'I hustled around and found that the collateral was a lot of paper showing that Mr. Chow Chow, the grocer, had indorsed for old man Stiff, the embalmer, and old man Stiff the embalmer, had indorsed for old Chow Chow, the grocer, in order to borrow of the bank $50,000 deposited there by old man Rennet, the farmer, and old man Pieplant the farmer. It was the old story. The business men had endorsed for each other in order to borrow the farmers' deposits and the lawyers were now taking what was left in payment for advising them how to do it."

UNCLE SAM'S ARMY.

There are 9,900,000 able-bodied men in the United States available for military services. How Napoleon's legions dwindled beside this, and the hosts which Grant, Sherman and Sheridan led shrink to pigmies. Of course, however, no such swarm of fighters could ever be mobilized in this or any other country, says a San Francisco paper.

It would overtax even American energy and resource to clothe, and feed, and arm them, and maintain them in idleness. These figures, it is true, have no practical military value, but as a suggestion of the mighty war potentialities of the republic they are not without interest to the world.

But when we come to enumerate the men actually under arms in the United States as trained and disciplined soldiers we realize our military insignificance. Besides the little regular army of 25,000 men there is a more or less thoroughly organized and equipped force of 112,190 men in the National Guard and militia. That is only about one man in a hundred of those of our citizens liable to bear arms is regularly engaged in mastering the rudiments of the soldier's profession.

ROBBERS ON HORSEBACK.

SEDALIA, Mo., March 29.—The little town of Salesville in Cooper County is greatly excited over a daring outrage which took place there this morning. Shortly after 1 o'clock five mounted men wearing masks rode up to the store of Edward Lane and woke up Dr. Pierce, who roomed on the second floor. The spokesman told the Doctor his services were needed at Vose Floyd's house, two miles in the country. Four of the men kept out of sight until after the Doctor and his escort had left the town some distance behind, when they closed upon the physician and held him up. He was robbed of his watch and $50 in money. The robbers then blindfolded Dr. Pierce and left him in charge of one of their number. The others returned to Salesville and broke into a store. The robbers drilled into the safe and blew it open, but found only $60 in the cash drawer. The desperadoes returned to where they had left the Doctor, removed the ropes from his feet and left him, after threatening to shoot him if he left the spot before daylight. The Doctor remained quiet only a short time and then he returned to Salesville and gave the alarm. The robbers are supposed to be residents of Cooper County.—The Republic

KILLED BY A MOB.

Montgomery, Ala., March 29.—To-day Oliver Jackson, one of the Grant Murderers, was taken down to the lower part of the country for a preliminary trial. After the trial the negro was committed to jail without bond. While en route back to Montgomery to fight a dozen masked men took the prisoner from two Deputies at the point of pistols and sent the Deputies back down the road. They had got about 100 yards from the mob when a fusillade of shots was heard. Getting help, the Deputies went back to the scene and found the prisoner dead, with a hundred bullet holes through him. Oliver Jackson was the negro who had been hired to kill Mr. Grant, but was late in meeting the conspirators and the others assassinated him. Jackson had three murders to his credit. Several years ago he killed a white man near the city and burned him up to hide the crime. Five of the Grant murderers are now in jail here awaiting trial. They will undoubtedly be hanged.

The murder was committed about three weeks ago near this city—The Republic

Wingate Timmons, aged 72 years, an ex-soldier of the war, who has been living in Arizona for almost a quarter of a century, called at the police station this morning to learn something of the whereabouts of his brother, Stephen, and his own son, William Warren Timmons, whom he had not seen in 20 years. He learned while in San Francisco recently that they were living somewhere in Oregon or Washington.—Telegram of the 31st ult.
