Mrs. Jones.

"Do all the men in town visit the saloons, Nebby?"
"What a question, Sophie, and one I decline to answer."
"Ah! Indeed," said she, "I did not expect an answer. In union there is strength, and our temperate virtuous husbands all combine to keep from their much abused wives, information that reflects somewhat on their immaculate characters," and Sophie laughed loud and long.
"Madam," said Jones, "your insinuations and immoderate laughter alike are lost on me. I feel myself above suspicion."
Another peal of laughter from Sophie, that laid in the shade all efforts in that line of Geo. S. Ma-Daddy B. or one of the Dr's. sneezes. Jones's anger was equal, if not greater than the man's who was fined the other day. Sophie was in ecstasies.
"Mrs. Jones," said Nebby "this has gone quite far enough, there is an end to all things."
"Some are round," interrupted Sophie, "for instance, 'the world or a ring.'"
"—this farce," went on Jones, "is now completed marriage is proven, at least, with us to be a failure. You can consult—yes, Mr. B—I believe he gets the heft of such cases—"
"Yes," said Sophie, "and you and he both can have the heft of my foot if I think you deserve it. But it's awful funny. Man born of a woman is of few days and then he generally goes up in a fizzle. Politics and studying how to deceive his wife and make her believe him to be perfection. Jones I tell you, you are a goose, and awfully weak in the upper story."
"I have lived fifty years," said Nebby, "and never been kicked by a mule, and now to be called a goose and weak intellectually by a woman and that woman my wife is quite enough. Yes it's time we were separated I am now getting old but yet I feel strong and capable of doing great things."

"Yes," said Sophie smilingly. "you can probably, if you will work it right, be one of the committee on arrangements for the coming 4th of July celebration or if you will be right good and stay away from the saloons and such places you might be admitted into the M. E. Church as an exorter, if you can exort sinners to repentance as successfully as you exort a little money and many smiles from candidates you might yet be a partial success, but no man was ever an entire success except to muddle, a man is grand to muddle things for example, the finance, the tariff, the foreign immigration, the banking system, the rail roads, the telegraphs, etc; But really Nebby I believe you could exort—"
"Woman! Will you stop and take breath?" said Jones, "the cord is broken, the silk thread has come to its end, the bowl—yes the bowl—"
"What bowl?" interrupted his wife, "The beer mug you kind husbands are in the habit of drinking beer from? If that's the case I for one can rejoice."
"No madam," said Jones, "its the silken cord that binds our lives together, it's the matrimonial bowl of wedded existence to which I refer it's the turning of the one to

I have two little grand children who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it acts like a charm. I earnestly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cured me. Within twenty-four hours I was out of bed and doing my house work. Mrs. W. L. Dunagan, Bon aqua, Hickman Co., Tenn. For sale by H. M. Horton.

While in Topeka last March, E. T. Barber, a prominent newspaper man of La Cygne, Kan., was taken with cholera morbus very severely. The night clerk at the hotel where he was stopping happened to have a bottle of Chamberlin's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and gave him three doses which relieved him and he thinks saved his life. Every family should keep this remedy in their home at all times. No one can tell how soon it may be needed. It costs but a trifle and may be the means of saving much suffering and perhaps the life of some member of the family. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by H. M. Horton.
