

SENATOR Faulkner, of West Virginia, chairman of the democratic Congressional campaign committee, who is almost constantly at the committee headquarters, smiles significantly every time his attention is called to a new version of the dissention which the republican newspaper correspondents profess to have discovered in the committee. He says that those for whose benefit the committee exists have the best of reasons for knowing that there is no dissention, and that it will be beneficial rather than otherwise to the democratic party if those correspondents can convince the republican managers that the committee is not in a condition to render effective service to the democratic candidates. As a matter of fact, all of these dissention fairy tales are based upon a misapprehension of the duties of the committee. With the exception of the campaign Text Book, which is prepared by the committee, and which is not for general distribution but for speakers and editors, the committee does not decide what sort of documents are to be sent into a Congressional district. It merely sends what is asked for by the candidate or those authorized to speak for him. So it is simply impossible that members of the committee should dispute over what documents shall be sent out. The committee is filling all the orders sent to it, and will continue to do so. Senator Faulkner says the information he is receiving from all over the country is daily adding to his confidence that the democrats will retain control of the House, and he thinks that the greater the improvement in business, now becoming apparent in all sections, the larger the democratic majority will be, as the only thing that ever made the issue doubtful was the business depression and the disposition of many voters to hold the party in power responsible for the hard times.

REPRESENTATIVE John T. Dunn, of New Jersey, has some very strong ideas on political economy, and they are thoroughly practical, as is the man. Speaking of the effect of the republican policy upon farmers, he said: "If there is any class of people under the sun who ought to vote the democratic ticket it is the farmers. Since 1860 farm values have decreased fully 40 per cent in the United States, as shown by the census figures. There isn't a country place in New Jersey to day that is worth $50 per acre for farming purposes. I happen to own the old Doty homestead, on the outskirts of Elizabeth, on which the celebrated Ben Wade was born. It contains eighty four acres, and in 1860 was held at $25,000. I am now negotiating to sell it for $5,500. Land is the only thing in this country that has not kept pace with the increase of population. Protected industries have absorbed the increase of value that, in the absence of laws favoring a special class, would have gone to land owners. As a legitimate consequence of this beautiful protection doctrine, Egyptian cotton and Indian grain have been brought into competition with the products of our soil, forcing down prices of both to the lowest point ever recorded."

I have two little grand children who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it acts like a charm. I earnestly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cured me. Within twenty-four hours, I was out of bed and doing my house work. Mrs. W. L. Dunagan, Bonanza, Hickman Co., Tenn. For sale by H. M. Horton.

While in Topeka last March, E. F. Barber, a prominent newspaper man of La Cygne, Kan., was taken with cholera morbus very severely. The night clerk at the hotel where he was stopping happened to have a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and gave him three doses which relieved him and he thinks saved his life. Every family should keep this remedy in their home at all times. No one can tell how soon it may be needed. It costs but a trifle and may be the means of saving much suffering and perhaps the life of some member of the family. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by H. M. Horton.
