ED. HERALD: Since the election my democratic rooster is not crowing very much. I think the rooster is somewhat surprised. We live in an age of sudden political changes. In 1892 the voters said "we have tariff reform," in 1894 they say "we do not want tariff reform" in '96 I think another land slide will occur, but this last election seems to have sounded the death knell of the populist party. I think myself the populists as a party were too sectional and selfish, but we will let them depart in peace.

One of our neighbors met with a sad accident the 5th of this month. He was on his wagon, which was loaded with wood, going down a steep grade the brake gave away and he was thrown from the wagon. The wheel of the wagon ran over his body killing him almost instantly. His boy, 9 years old, was with him but not on the wagon at the time. He ran to his father and raised his head, he spoke and said "I am dying" were the only words that he spoke. His name was Joel Langton.

Our ranchers are about through owing fall grain principally rye.

N. Comegys and family of your city are here visiting the old man and his wife expect to stay here all winter, but Charley and his sister Annie will return home in two or three weeks.

Our citizens are all ready for the winter, have flour, beef and pork.

About the 10th of December George Small will leave here with a band of 100 miles for an eastern market. Cattle have all been driven to the desert to winter.

I see in the HERALD that Bob Drinkwater and family have returned from the Valley.

Where is the plutonic Melville? Has he demonstrated the immutability of the Omaha platform?
