

It is just as well for the republicans to remember that political parties sometimes have more confidence than votes.

Every hotel keeper who entertains Mr. William H. Hahn, of Ohio, should see to it that he never sits down to a meal without a negro seated on each side of him. He says he wants the negro to get the same accommodation he does, and he isn't, of course, merely talking for McKinley votes.

Boss Platt found time to go over to Washington to lend a helping hand to Quay and Reed in their efforts to control the time and place of the next republican national convention.

And br'er Harrison; he seems to have crawled under that hat and curled up for the winter.

Dr. Talmage has been preaching on "opportunity." He ought to be familiar with the subject; he's had lots of them and has never failed to turn them to his own advantage.

The name of the battleship Texas indicates a fighter, but present indications are that the vessel will never be kept out of the repair shop long enough to do any fighting.

Some people seemed surprised because the woman's edition of the bible has not jumped into popularity. It is much more surprising that its publication should be even tolerated.

It will probably be a long time before "reform" plays another municipal engagement in New York City.

Ex-Gov St John says the future of the prohibition party is bright. Well, that depends somewhat on the sense in which the word "bright" is used.

Bishop Hurst wants the United States to send troops to Turkey to protect the American Christians. Wonder if the bishop would accept the berth of Commander in chief of such an army of invasion?

The republicans of S. C. should have accompanied their appeal to Congress to undo the work of the recent constitutional convention in that state by a citation of that section of the Constitution of the U. S. which gives Congress authority to interfere in such a matter.

Some of the republican candidates seem to have an idea that the National committee is the custodian of the Presidential nomination.

The British Ambassador will think twice before he again stirs up Senator Morgan, of Ala. Mr. Morgan is a dangerous individual for anybody to jump on. He always jumps back and he has sharp spurs in the bottom of his shoes.

Good advice: Never leave the house on a journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by Several years ago I was taken with a severe attack of flux. I was sick in bed about ten days and could get nothing to relieve me until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured me and has been a household remedy with us ever since. J C Marlow, Decaturville, Mo. For sale by all druggists.

Its Value Recognized by Physician.

As a rule I am opposed to proprietary medicines. Still I value a good one, especially when such is the source of relief from pain. As a topical [external] application I have found Chamberlain's Pain Balm the best remedy I have ever used for neuralgia of any kind. I have conscientiously recommended it to many persons. William Horne, M. D., Janesville, Wis. Sold by all druggists.

THE NAME OF THE NEXT

President of the United States

WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN

The New York Weekly Tribune

OF NOVEMBER 4th 1896.

Public interest will steadily increase, and the question how the men whose votes turned the scale at the last election are satisfied with the results under the administration they elected, will make the campaign the most intensely exciting in the history of the country.

The New York Weekly Tribune

the leading Republican family newspaper of The United States, will publish all the political news of the day, interesting to every American citizen regardless of party affiliations.

Also general news in attractive form, foreign correspondents covering the news of the world, an agricultural department second to none in the country, market reports which are recognized authority, fascinating short stories, complete in each number, the cream of the humorous papers, foreign and domestic, with their best comic pictures, fashion plates and elaborate descriptions of woman's attire, with a varied and attractive department of household interest. The "New York Weekly Tribune" is an ideal family paper, with a circulation larger than that of any other weekly publication in the country issued from the office of a daily. Large changes are being made in its details, tending to give it greater life and variety, and especially more interest to the women and young people of the household.
