IVY'S MISTAKE.

BY ROSE RAYNESFORD.

From New York Weekly

CHAPTER I. (CONTINED.)

Poor Ivy! She turned faint and sick as the fatal truth forced itself upon her. Her face grew white as death. and there was in the soft eye a stony look of misery that would have melted a less cruel heart than that of the woman beside her. But in the midst of her misery pride came to her aid. One thing she was resolved upon—no one should ever suspect her anguish; no one should ever say that she wore the willow for gay Joe Dalton.

How she accomplished the rest of the distance to the church she never knew. She had a confused remmebrance that she turned the subject with some commonplace remarks—that discussed the weather, the fall styles, the new minister with now and then a laugh or careless jest, in much her usual fashion till they parted at the church door. and Ivy mechanically ascended the gallary stairs and took her place among the "singers' seats."

"Why, Ivy Sunderland!" chorused the girls; "what is the matter? You're as white as a sheet, and your eyes—why, girls, just look at her eyes!"

"There, girls," said Ivy with a faint smile, "please don't talk to me: I have a terrible headache."

Which was true enough, but heart ache would have been truer.

So the kind hearted creatures bustled about and brought her a glass of water and a battered old palm leaf fan from a dusty closet, and mercifully left her at peace. But for once the soaring soprano was silent, and the anthem was obliged to pursue its winding way without her aid while she sat on one side idly watching the congregation drifting in, one by one, with their shining holiday faces.

By and by came a firm, light tread upon the aisle, and Ivy closed her eyes with a sickening shudder. When she opened them again Joe Dalton stood at the head of the pew, ushering in a tiny, elegant creature in rustling purple silks, a cloud of fluffy blonde hair above a childish face, and eyes like great, solft violets. He faced the choir for an instant, and, as his eyes met Ivy's, the whole face lighted up with a gleam of dark eyes, and a flash of dazzling teeth beneath his brown mustache.

But the smile faded to a look of half-indignant surprise as Ivy looked straight on and beyond him, without the slightest sign of recognition, and he settled himself with that impatient shake of the broad shoulders which Ivy knew so well

Long after service she lingered in the gallery to avoid all chance of meeting him, and then slowly made her way home, a curious numb feeling at her heart, a strange blur and chill over the sunny autumn landscape and in the crisp golden air.

America's Great Danger

AN ENGLISH COMMENTARY.

Said an eminent English scientist recently: "The danger that confronts the great American people to-day is not the possible adoption of a wrong financial policy for the nation, or the spread of socialism, or the increase of corruption among public men. All these are bad enough, to be sure, but they are as nothing compared to the terrible national disease—I had almost said nation al crime—of overwork. The mad rush for wealth is set at a killing pace, and thousands fall by the way every year.

You are likely to be one of the victims!

How do we know? Because it is the exception to find a man or woman of adult age in perfect health. Nervous Disorders are spreading with fearful rapidity. Among the symptoms, are—Backache, Biliousness, Cold Hands and Feet, Dizziness, Hot Flushes, Fluttering Sensation, Fainting, Headache, Hysteria, Irritability of the Heart, Melancholy, Failing Memory, Palpitation, Rheumatism, Short Breath, Sleeplessness, Nervous Dyspepsia, Sexual Debility, Fits, etc.

REV. C. A. CARROLL, pastor First Baptist Church, Yellow Springs, O., writes as follows: "I have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for the past six months. I find it acts like a charm on the whole nervous system. I have not found its equal in giving immediate relief. Dr. Miles' Little Nerve and Liver Pills only need a trial and they will recommend themselves to be the best pills in the market."

"For five years I have suffered from Nervous Prostration, I was unable to work or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine gave me relief, and one thousand dollars would not cover the good it has done me."—JOHN MINCHER, Youngstown, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unequalled in CURING Nervous Diseases. It contains no opiates or dangerous drugs. Sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
