

PHOTOGRAPHED HIS BRAIN.

New York, Feb. 13.—The human brain has been photographed. Dr. Carleton Simon exhibited a picture of his own brain, obtained by a process in which the cathode rays are not a factor. He has been nearly three years in completing his experiments. He tells the story of his efforts as follows:

"The brain has been my especial study and I have worked independently in a quiet way for nearly three years to photograph it. I first sought to accomplish my purpose by passing a continuous current of electricity through the brain, illuminating it by the spark, and then I tried the interrupted current, but this produced paralysis of the brain, rendering senseless the subjects. The principle is illustrated by a flash of lightning on a dark night which carries images through which it travels to the eye. From this, indeed it was suggested to me the same idea might be applied to the brain. Again, you know the firefly is made almost transparent by its tiny lantern.

I am still far from having perfected the instrument by which I am able to photograph the brain. Of course the more solid structures are reflected on the plates, and I find that the less exposure I give to the photographic plate the easier I apparently am able to photograph translucent matter."

Though in a measure satisfied that the process was one by which the brain could be photographed without risk of life, it may be stated that the experimenter selected himself as his subject, that no other life might be endangered

Found the Pole.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 13.—A telegram received today from Irkutsk, Siberia, says a Siberian trader named Kouchpareff, agent of Fridtjef Nansen, the Norwegian explorer who sailed on June 24th, 1893, for the Arctic regions, has received information that Nansen has reached the north pole, found land there and is returning toward civilization.

Dr. Fritjef Nansen is a distinguished scientist of Norway and an enthusiastic believer in the possibility of reaching the north pole. He is about 35 years of age. The Norwegian parliament allowed Nansen about $52,000 to fit out his craft, and in addition he was assisted in his work by many private subscriptions, including one of $5000 from King Oscar. The Fram in which he sailed, was launched October 25, 1892, at Laurwik, near Christiania.

WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN

The New York Weekly Tribune

OF NOVEMBER 4th 1896.

Public interest will steadily increase, and the question how the men whose votes turned the scale at the last election are satisfied with the results under the administration they elected, will make the campaign the most intensely exciting in the history of the country.

The New York Weekly Tribune

the leading Republican family newspaper of The United States, will publish all the political news of the day, interesting to every American citizen regardless of party affiliations. Also general news in attractive form, foreign correspondents covering the news of the world, an agricultural department second to none in the country, market reports which are recognized authority, fascinating short stories, complete in each number, the cream of the humorous papers, foreign and domestic, with their best comic pictures, fashion plates and elaborate descriptions of woman's attire, with a varied and attractive department of household interest. The "New York Weekly Tribune" is an ideal family paper, with a circulation larger than that of any other weekly publication in the country issued from the office of a daily. Large changes are being made in its details, tending to give it greater life and variety, and especially more interest to the women and young people of the household.
