A telephone message received in Burns Monday announces the death of Mrs. Ella Collier, of Prairie City, a sister of John D. Daly, of Drewsey. The deceased was also a relative of Mr and Mrs. C. G. Fry, of Burns, who on receipt of the news left immediately for Prairie City. They will probably take the care of the minor children.

Guy Hembree, the young Silver creek merchant, was a Burns visitor several days during the past week. He informs us that his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Hembree, and a younger brother, of Narrows, will leave shortly on a prospecting trip through the mountains of northern Malheur and Bakes counties. They will also pay a visit to relatives living near Baker City.

An exchange says that if a newspaper man know how many knocks he received behind his back he would adopt another calling. Not so. The newspaper man who succeeds expects to be maligned by every low breaker, swindler and hypocrite, every carping critic and every lover of notoriety who is ignored, and, in fact, by all persons who do not agree with him in public and private matters.

George W. Small died at the residence of Mrs. Etta Dodson last Monday, June 10, 1901, of a combination of pulmonary and heart trouble. The deceased came to Burns last Fall and was employed a good share of his time as an attendant in Robinson & Walton's barber shop. He has relatives living in California. The remains were prepared for burial at G. W. Clevenger's undertaking establishment. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon by Rev. Father McDevitt, of the Catholic church, of which the deceased was a member.

A mixup occurred yesterday morning in the Maze saloon between Tom Stevens, of Burns, Harney county, the old time sport, and Bob Smith, a dealer of a twenty one game. Stevens was playing at the game and lost, it is said, $425. Stevens was sore over his loss and reached over to "swipe" the funds. Smith was not asleep and landed good and hard on Stevens' face, knocking him down and kicked him for falling. It was a lively mill, so bystanders say, and Stevens got decidedly the worst of it.—Baker Democrat.

D. C. O'Keilly returned the first of the week from Portland. He was accompanied by a civil engineer and is engaged in surveying the location of a ditch for the Harney Valley Irrigation Company, a corporation which has recently filed papers of its purposes in the county clerk's office. Water will be taken from Silvie's river to irrigate lands owned by the company on the east side of that stream.

Among the elections to grand lodge offices we are pleased to note that of Mrs. W. L. Marsden, of this place, to the position of Grand worthy Matron of the order of Eastern Star.
