Saturday evening Drs. Ferguson and Reuter operated on Henry Schofield, of Harney county, for a tumor on the face. He stood the operation well and is getting along nicely.—The Dailies Chronicle.

J. H. Neal left Monday for Portland, where he goes as a delegate to the Republican state convention which meets at that place next Wednesday. He will be joined by Mr. Haines at Vale.

Harney county has its share of disgruntled, disappointed office seekers, who are always ready to oppose those in office who will not do their bidding. The present contest for Congressmen has set them to work.

It is estimated that there are about 125 republican votes in this precinct. Seventy of these voted at the primary Wednesday. A simple problem in subtraction and you have the number of republicans voting with the "push" the preceding Saturday.

News was received here Wednesday of the death of Henry Master-son at Drewsey Tuesday night of rheumatism. Word was received later that his wife who was ill with pneumonia passed away the following morning. Three children survive them the oldest being eight. The remains were buried in one grave in the Drewsey cemetery.

In 1892, John Vaughn, then leader of the "push," went to the County Central Committee with 10 proxies and delegates were elected to the state convention. Six years ago the County Central Committee elected delegates to the State convention, one of these being A. W. Gowan, now howling against the action of the recent Committee meeting. Here are two instances where the gang now headed by "Shick ear" Hanley sent delegates to the state convention from the Central committee. Why their howl now? They want to go again.

WARREN CURTIS MURDURED

Slayers in Jail Awaiting Preliminary Examination.

This city was thrown into a state of excitement early last Sunday morning by a telephone message announcing that Warren Curtis, who lives 6 or 7 miles east of Narrows, had the evening before between 10 and 11 o'clock been shot and killed by George Miller, James Colwell and Cass Hays. Sheriff Shelley and John Saxton left immediately for the scene and were soon followed by Coronor Dr. W. L. Marsden. On the arrival of the party at Narrows a jury was summoned and an inquest held which developed the following facts:

Ill feeling had existed between Miller and Curtis for some time, the trouble being over the ownership of a colt in the latter's possession. Several communications on the subject passed between them and finally Miller sent Curtis word that he was coming to get the colt. Curtis in reply told him to bring an officer with him and if the colt was proven to be his he did not want it.

The night of the killing Miller and those accompanying him cut the fence between George Curtis' place and that of Warren's and drove a bunch of work horses into the latter's field with the intention of driving off the colt which was in Warren Curtis' barn. The noise made in turning the colt out awoke Curtis who went to the barn to investigate the disturbance. He returned to the house shortly and informed his wife that George Miller, James Colwell and Cass Hays were out there, and taking a 22-calibre rifle he started again for the barn and corral, saying to his wife that he would go and scare them away. When he reached the corral he ordered the parties off his premises. At this juncture he was fired upon by George Miller who was armed with a shotgun and about fifteen paces distance behind a post. Five shots were fired, a greater part of the charges taking effect in Curtis' body between the chin and hips.

The doctor on making his examination found 84 gunshot wounds. On hearing the first shot Mrs. Curtis, who had already arose and dressed, started for the corral and as she got nearly there she saw the three men mount and ride away. She went immediately to her husband and found him lying on his back but not dead. He was groaning as suffering great pain but did not speak. She stayed with him until the groans ceased, when she went to the barn and saddled a horse and went to a neighbors two miles distance to summon assistance. When she returned with help her husband was dead. News was immediately taken to Narrows and reached here about 4 o'clock the following morning, delays being occasioned by failing to get the telephone operator up.

After the shooting Miller, Colwell and Bert Bailey, as the third man was proven to be, instead of Hays, went to Colwell's place adjoining that of Curtis' on the west where they remained until noon the next day. Miller was arrested at Narrows by Deputy Saxton, and Colwell and Bailey were afterwards secured at Colwell's place and held as witnesses until brought to Burns where papers were served charging them with being accessories to the crime. The three prisoners were lodged in the county jail to await their preliminary examination which will be held next Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Jameson.

Joseph Warren Curtis was born in Iowa 36 years ago. He came to Eastern Oregon in 1888, and to Harney County in 1884, where he has since resided. He was a member of Burns Lodge No. 70, I. O. O. F., under whose auspices his body was conveyed to its last resting place in the Burns cemetery Tuesday. He leaves a widow and one child.

Poison Creek Notes.

G. W. Shaw is preparing to sow several kinds of small grain.

John Jones' family have all recovered from the scarlet fever.

Mrs. E. Lampshire is now conducting the Prairier Creek school.

James Kennedy is now occupying his new home site on Soldier Creek.

L. B. Cu'p is erecting a dwelling house on his homestead on the head waters of Prairier Creek.

R. L. Matheson, traveling salesman for J. Danella & Company, wholesale grocers, Portland, Oregon, passed through Poison Creek neighborhood a few days ago.

Frank Whiting anticipates occupying his homestead in the mountains during the summer, his object being to improve his home. Frank is a rustler which is evident from the marks he makes as he moves to and fro.

We are reliably informed that Mrs. John Jones has increased the butter product of her dairy 20 per cent over the pan process as the result of the use of a Buckey Cream Separator. Mrs. Jones is an expert butter maker, therefore we hesitate not to say by the use of a Buckey Cream Separator she will be in a position to place before the Burns market as high grade butter as the trade can furnish.

Two of the five names signed to the call in the News for the "pushers" primaries and convention have been denounced as forgeries. Yet that religious sheet stops to say in the same breath something about "principle in politics."

The proposed action of the gang to bullyrag the candidates into line at the County Convention for their delegates to the state convention, was the chief reason for the action of the committee in forestalling their scheme.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Halls Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Cheney & Co., props.
