

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request. Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that the new home sewing machine CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no truth in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines that is the envy of all others. THE POWER OF MUSIC.

How a Clever Salesman Sold an Organ to a Lady Who Had Little Use for It.

In one of the local music stores the other day several salesmen were relating experiences connected with the craft, when one of the party, who had been a dealer in organs in a small way in a western state, where he had acted as agent for a big concern in supplying the local trade, grew reminiscent, relates the Washington Star.

"I remember an incident connected with the sale of those cottage organs that has somewhat the flavor of the David Harum loss trade," said he. "My rival in the organ business in the western town was one of the slickest salesmen that ever cajoled the elusive currency from a folded fist. The fellow—his name was Bishop—sold organs to nearly every family in three counties. We got our instruments for about $28 net, and the regular selling price was $60.

"Bishop had a light wagon constructed especially for carrying a cottage organ, and he would load in one of the instruments and, together with his assistant, who was a fine musician, would start for the country.

"One day he drove to a farm owned and managed by a wealthy old Irish lady who couldn't tell a music score from a baseball tally sheet. As Bishop and his assistant drove up to the house with organ in the wagon the old lady came out before the door, and with her arms akimbo struck a Delaarteian pose suggestive of the haughty decision, and said:

"Take that thing out of my yard! Move on wid yez. I won't have no music boxes around me. Don't ye dare to take it out av the wagon, or I'll break it open wid an ax."

"Oh, I didn't intend to take the organ out, Mrs. Murphy," said Bishop. "I only wanted to water my horses."

"It was a warm day and, after watering the animals, the two began conversing pleasantly with Mrs. Murphy until her aggressiveness relaxed. Bishop declared it was too warm to take to the road for a while and that they would have to rest. He presently induced the old lady to let them put the organ under a shade tree out of the sun. The two conspirators against the peace of the household strolled aimlessly about the yard, and after awhile the young fellow opened up the organ and began playing lively airs with the Irish sticking out all over them. He was an excellent performer and he coaxed all the Irish out of that instrument there was in it, and presently Mrs. Murphy peeked out at the door. The assistant played through his list of airs and started on some of the old songs dear to every native of old Erin, using the stops and pedals with great effect.

"And what do yez ask for a thing like that?" the old lady presently asked Bishop.

"We usually get $75 for that organ," he replied indifferently, and went on sauntering about the yard.

"The music continued, and after a few minutes Mrs. Murphy asked: 'Would ye sell it any cheaper fer cash?'"

"No," says Bishop, "that's the lowest cash price."

"Mrs. Murphy walked back to the house. Finally the young man closed the organ with a snap and backed up the wagon preparatory to reloading. Mrs. Murphy came out with unmistakable interest visible in her countenance. She looked the organ over a moment and then said:

"Now, Mr. Bishop, couldn't ye throw off five dollars if I'd give ye cash money?"

"No," said he, "this organ is the one I am using for a sample, and it's one of the best. I don't care to sell it anyway, but I have some down at the store," and he went on reloading.

"The old lady's Irish blood was up. She couldn't let an instrument that could express the sentiments of those old melodies so sweetly escape her, so she said: 'I don't want any other one. Just be aisy now and wait a minute, and she dodged into the house, where the family bank, consisting of an old stocking, was opened, and she counted out $75 for the lucky salesman.

"The organ was placed in the parlor, the assistant taught the old lady a chord, and as they drove away they could hear her hammering on the organ with exuberating results. Down the road for half a mile they could hear 'tum, tum-tum, tum, tum-tum,' as she endeavored to get her money's worth. The only time it afforded her satisfaction, however, was when some visitor who could play dropped in, and then the music of old Erin could be heard from the roadway for hours."

Wild Flowers as Weeds.

It has been stated that the only difference between a weed and a wild flower is that it is a weed when it comes up where the cultivator does not want it. A wildflower, then, becomes a weed when growing in cultivated ground. One would hardly suppose that the Canna of our gardens, a beautiful wild flower of Florida, is often a great pest to the Florida horticulturist, and is classed there as among the worst weeds. It appears persistently in low ground, known to cultivators as hummock soil; its root stocks grow so deep in the ground that the plow does not turn them out, so that they grow up as bad as ever in newly plowed ground. The roots have to be dug out with a spade, in order to clear of them.—Golden Days.

An Acrobatic Pianist.
A Milan correspondent tells of a pianist named Banca, who at Venice recently set himself to break the record of piano playing, so far as time is concerned. Apparently what the musician had to surpass was a 40 hours' sitting at the instrument. This he undertook to do by hammering the keys for 30 consecutive hours, that appalling period being only broken by three short rests of ten minutes each. This feat was duly accomplished in the presence of a committee of doctors and musicians. When the two days, two nights and two hours had expired, Banca played the Italian national anthem with a jubilant flourish, and left the piano amid the enthusiastic cheers of an enormous audience. The whole of the receipts were given to the fund in aid of the survivors of the recent volcanic disasters in the West Indies.—London News.

A LUNG BATH.
It is a Wonderfully Refreshing and Health-Giving Practice.

Did you ever hold a watch and see for how many seconds you could keep a stream of air flowing from your lungs? If not, make the test, and you will find that no matter how small the stream, you cannot keep it constantly flowing in for more than 15, or possibly 30 seconds; but if you will try two or three times each day, you can double the time within two weeks. The boy or girl who will try this and keep it up regularly for a year, will not be likely to die of consumption, and should they ever become public speakers or singers, they will be very thankful that they commenced when young to take "lung baths." Harper's Young People, in speaking about breathing, says: "Did you ever think of taking a lung bath? One's lungs need cleansing as surely as do the hands and face. This is especially true after one has been in a crowded hall or church, breathing in so many impurities. How can one take a lung bath? By simply drawing a deep breath and then expelling the air from the lungs. You will feel wonderfully refreshed thereby and the general health will be improved."

"Are you on intimate terms with your neighbors?" "No; but they are with us. Why, they know dreadful secrets of ours that we never heard of even."—Harper's Bazar.

"What's the matter, Uncle Rufus?" he asked facetiously as the old man came limping in; "got the goat?" "No, sah, I've got de bill fo' dat white washin' what I did fo' yer ins' yeah."—Harlem Life.

Sad Experience.—The Doctor—"You'll come around all right, judge. Any physician would tell you the same thing." The Judge—"Yes, doctor; but I've heard so much expert testimony!"—Brooklyn Life.

Mrs. Fred Unrath,
President Country Club, Beantown Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength, although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.
