PORTLAND – Members of Grant Union's Future Business Leaders of America chapter capped a successful year at FBLA's annual State Business Leadership Conference.

The season of hard work is over for all the members, but one.

Sophomore Clay Johnson was elected as an FBLA state officer, vice president. He'll represent seven eastern counties in the Blue Mountain Region.

In other positive news for the local chapter, the team of Johnson, Trejan Speth and Blake Stone won first place in Entrepreneurship.

Last year, the team placed first at state in Management Decision Making.

Amy Lallatin, wrapping up her year as chapter president, placed third in Personal Finance.

Other team members also placed in the top 10 at the event.

Grant Union's 14 contenders were among more than 1,000 students at this year's conference. Advisor Guy Johnson accompanied the group to the event.

"I've got some great kids," he said. "They had a good time at the Old Spaghetti Factory, ice skating and shopping – and this group was more competitive (at the conference)."

He noted that because Clay was running for office, he had to set up booths.

"The students helped – it was a cohesive unit which made it fun for everyone," he said.

Clay said his duties as an officer include attending training meetings, helping plan the spring regional skills conference held in La Grande and the state conference.

He'll also visit chapters in the region to see how they operate, and help, if needed.

"What I like about FBLA, is it gets you out of your comfort zone," Clay said. "It stretches you and gives you an opportunity to see the business world and get you a head start in it."

He added the program also helps him with public speaking. "It's helped me, and it's pushing me," he said. "I'm looking forward to an exciting year."

The FBLA members meet at Guy Johnson's computer classroom at Grant Union during the school year at lunch-time on Mondays.
