

Farm Bureau seeks calendar photographs

SALEM — The Oregon Farm Bureau is seeking photos for its 2016 Oregon's Bounty calendar.

The deadline for entries is Sept. 15.

The award-winning calendar celebrates all aspects of Oregon agriculture: products, people, planting/harvest, landscape — anything that depicts the beauty, culture, enjoyment, technology or tradition of family farming and ranching in all parts of Oregon.

“With summer harvest in full swing, farmers markets bursting with agricultural bounty, and many county fairs and on-farm festivals going on, August is a great time to capture scenes of Oregon agriculture,” said Anne Marie Moss, communications director for the Oregon Farm Bureau.

High-resolution, horizontal-format images — both close-ups and panoramic views — are needed of all types of agriculture in all seasons. Subject ideas include farmers markets; county fair scenes; close-ups of fruits, vegetables, flowers, farm animals, crops in the field; planting and/or harvesting shots; portraits of farmers, ranchers, farm families; and farm scenes in all seasons.

Photographers with images selected for month pages in Oregon's Bounty will receive a photo credit in the 2016 calendar and copies of the calendar.

There is no limit to the number of photos that can be submitted.

Photographers can email their digital photo(s) to annemarie@oregonfb.org or put the image(s) on a CD and send it via postal mail to Anne Marie Moss, Oregon Farm Bureau, 1320 Capitol St. NE, Suite 200, Salem, OR 97301.

Photo specifications and contest rules are available at <http://www.oregonfb.org/calendar/>.

For more information, contact Moss at annemarie@oregonfb.org, 503-399-1701.

Children who wear bike helmets get rewards

Prairie City launches ‘Lids for Kids’ campaign

PRAIRIE CITY – Young skaters and bicyclists wheeling around in Prairie City are getting a kick start to keep them safe.

The City of Prairie City has launched its “Lids for Kids” campaign, an effort to purchase quality helmets for children in town who can’t afford them.

Donation containers are at City Hall and participating businesses in town for people who want to contribute to the cause.

And kids who remember to wear their helmets might end up with a reward, too.

City workers, city hall members and local law enforcement have begun handing out coupons good for a free tasty treat – soda at Huffman’s Market or an ice cream cone from The Hitchin’ Post – to children they spot wearing helmets.

For more information about the “Lids for Kids” helmet program or the coupon rewards, contact city hall at 541-820-3605.

Blue Mountain Century Bikeway Ride set

Blue Mountain Eagle

HEPPNER — The fourth annual Blue Mountain Scenic Century Ride will be Sept. 19 and 20.

Hosted by local bikeway leaders, the fully supported bicycle tour will be complete with sag wagons, food and mechanic support.

A shuttle will take bikers on Sept. 19 from Heppner to Ukiah where the ride begins. The first day ends back in Heppner with a barbecue dinner. The morning of Sept. 20, the riders head back to Ukiah. At the end of the day, a shuttle will take cyclists and bikes back to Heppner.

The ride route allows riders to stay in the same hotel or campsite Friday and Saturday nights. The Blue Mountain bikeway offers some of the most remote and extreme road riding in Oregon.

The cost, including ride support and barbecue dinner, one lunch and sag support, is $75. More information and registration details are available at <http://www.heppnerchamber.com/recreation-cycling>.
