Grant County Journal 100 years ago

County Treasurer Mosier is of the opinion that the method of handling the special school and city taxes can be improved along the lines suggested in The Journal a short time ago. In a letter recently received Mr. Mosier has the following to say: "Regarding the methods that have been used in the past by all of the treasurers in not noting upon the certificates for what years the taxes are for, I must say that your contention is very meritorious. The law does not state that this shall be done, and the blanks that I have been trying to use up ever since I have been in office, quite a supply of which was left by my predecessor, do not provide for putting the years in. This never was done ...

OUT OF THE PAST

the matter of straightening out Prairie's special tax promptly, and with the change to the new system there will be far less chance of the mistake being made.

Poor Business for the Jails

Sheriff Hazeltine says that jail business has fallen off. And he says that the same report comes from many sheriffs that he has talked to.

The upturn in industry and increase in employment is responsible. Men are getting jobs instead of going to jail.
