

Contributed photos/Brian Donahue

The path to totality is seen in these four images of the total solar eclipse, Monday, Aug. 21.

Contributed photo/Donald Wickman

The total solar eclipse, Aug. 21.

EO Media Group/E.J. Harris

John Day City Manager Nick Green wears an eclipse hat while manning a booth Saturday in downtown John Day.

The Eagle/Rylan Boggs

Lorna Moi-Masaki, left, and Annette Dong point to a partial eclipse at the John Day Industrial Park on Monday.

The Eagle/Rylan Boggs

Eclipse viewers test out their glasses before totality at the John Day Industrial Park on Monday, Aug. 21.

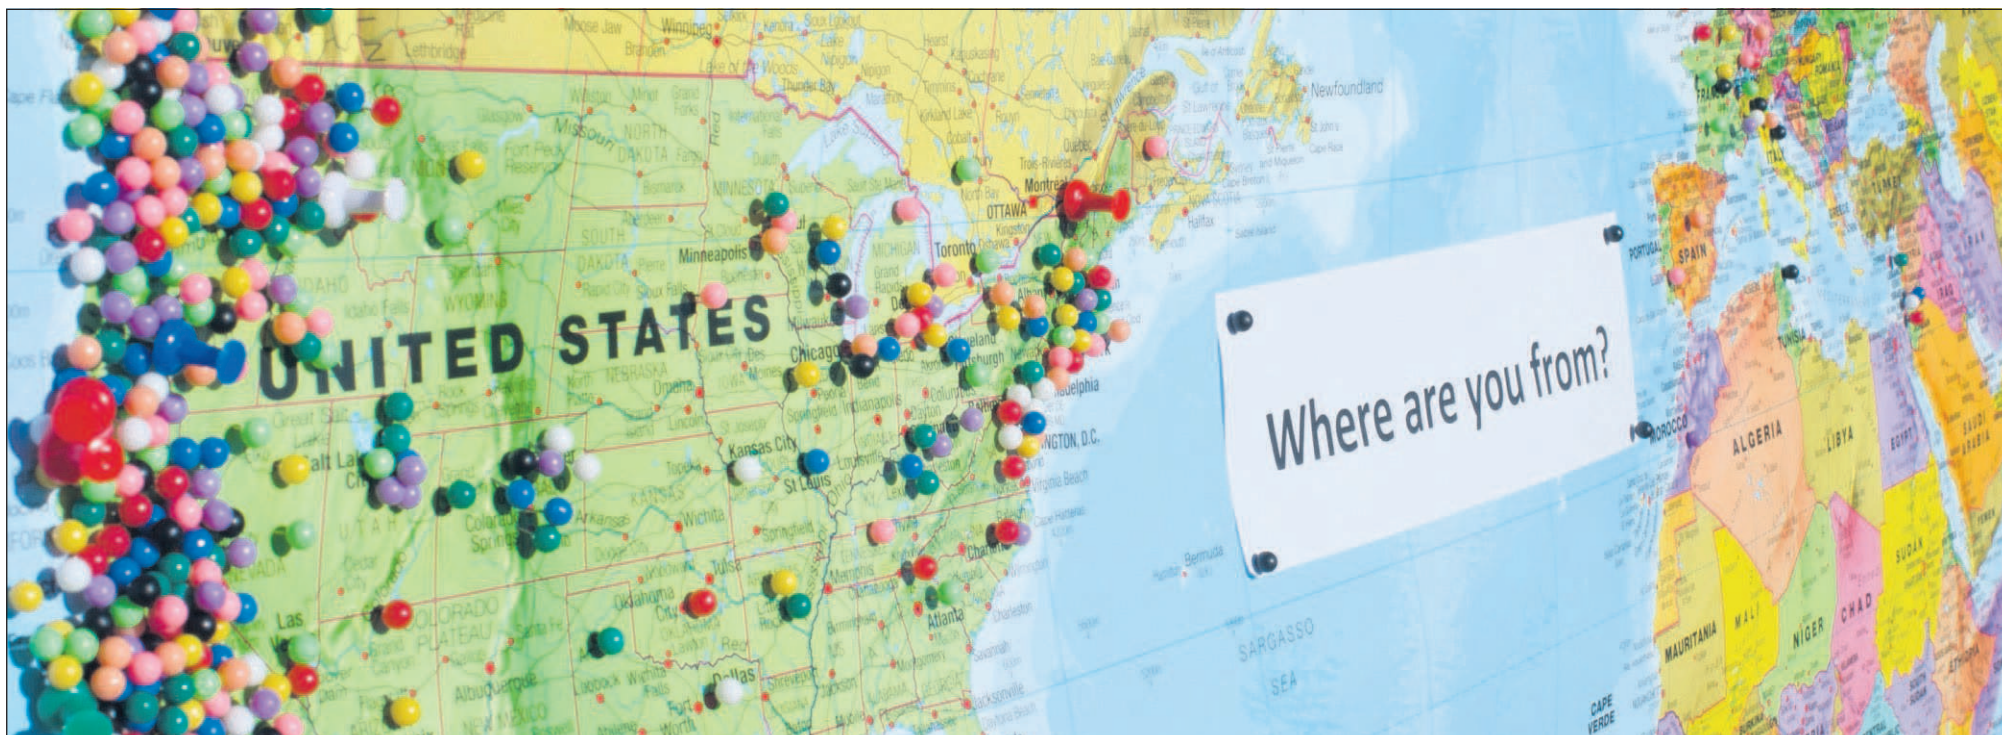

EO Media Group/E.J. Harris

The Eagle/Rylan Boggs

Eclipse viewers man cameras and telescopes before totality at the John Day Industrial Park on Monday, Aug. 21.

Lydia Bird of San Francisco adjusts a spotting scope she is using to project an image of the eclipse on a white piece of board on Monday in John Day.

The Eagle/Rylan Boggs

A map at the John Day Industrial Park shows where eclipse viewers traveled from to get to John Day.