Editor's Note

Grant County would not be the caring community it is without countless hours of giving back by numerous volunteers, nonprofits and businesses.

With the fifth edition of Grant County Giving, the Blue Mountain Eagle is proud to honor those who make the community such a great place to work and live.

This special section gives nonprofits, and the businesses who support them, a platform to explain their mission and their needs.

Our goal is to continue to expand Grant County Giving to include every charitable organization, painting a picture of all the good work that goes into improving the way of life in our community.

If you're looking for a place to donate time or money, these organizations offer a variety of opportunities.

Thank you to the generous businesses and volunteers who work so hard to support these nonprofits.

If you're not already one of them, this section should give you a good place to start giving back to help our community thrive.
