play at Crane tonight

The Grant High Prospectors travel to Crane today where they will meet the Crane High Mustangs in a basketball contest tonight.

The Prospectors edged out the Crane quintet at the Grant gym a month ago. Tonight's meeting will be tougher for the Prospectors due to the trip and playing on a strange floor.

The Grant team will leave for home immediately following the game to be ready for the Polio benefit affair with Condon tomorrow (Saturday) night.

Skeletal remains found near
Mount Vernon by horn hunters

Human skeletal remains were found by two Grant County horn hunters last Sunday on public land approximately eight miles northwest of Mt. Vernon. Grant County Sheriff Fred Reusser investigated and confirmed the find then contacted the Grant County Major Crime Team, including Oregon State Police detectives and crime laboratory personnel.

The remains were sent to the Oregon State Crime Laboratory in Ontario where identifications of the remains were made through review of dental records and confirmed to be that of a male. Further identification is being withheld by authorities pending notifications of next of kin.

Investigation into the matter continues. Police sources remain noncommittal on the issue of foul play and the estimated length of time the remains had been there.

Today started out perfectly clear, but by 1 p.m. it was perfectly cloudy! Our meal was in the perfectly edible category: Pulled pork sliders, coleslaw, fruit salad and a huge chocolate chip cookie. Thanks to Tom, Laura B., and Angie for today's repast. I, too, like to indulge in having a meal prepared for me one day a week. I try to plan our meals to use up all the left-overs by Tuesday night because I don't have to cook on Wednesday! Whee!! Now the entree is one that I have never prepared, and indeed did not know anything about until the last few years. And I am perfectly happy to have someone else fix it.... It is really good and I may have to learn more about it. How's that for a change of mind? Helpers today were our faithful Carole, Carla, Carlos, Pam and Ginger. Thanks again to all who volunteered to make the meal viable.

Daughter-in-love called from Oregon City and related her new cooking endeavor. She makes rose petal jelly. But she needed to make some pectin for it, too. Now I never heard that you could make our own pectin (not being a very experienced canner), but people in the Middle East do it all the time.

And you can find it on YouTube. The only problem is the directions are not in English. She finally found one site that did and proceeded to cook. Said she had been saving apple peels and cores in the freezer for a long time. You have to have 2 quarts to begin with. Everything turned out OK now it's on to the jelly. Something else I have never tried....and don't plan to!

I forgot to mention that our meal last week was in memory of Blaine Kendall. There will be other throughout the year that will have such a designation, either in honor or in memory of. This comes about through the Entree Program. You may donate enough money to enable us to purchase the entree for a meal and you can name someone to honor that day. It will be so noted on the menu that we hand out with the meal.

We finally moved into the 21st Century and bought a battery powered pencil sharpener. The one I've had since my Kindergarten teaching days is mounted on a 1x4 board that you have to put on the floor and put your foot on to hold it while your hands take care of holding the pencil and twirling the handle to do the sharpening. We decided that at our age we could indulge ourselves and purchase something that was easier to operate. Happy New Year!

So have you tried out Shalom on anyone? Just saying the word and thinking about its definition seems to bring a calming sensation to my troubled mind. It also helps to know the "Prince of Peace."

Our cooks Terry Cade and Carrie Jewell made BBQ beef sandwiches with french fries, cole slaw, and cookies for dessert for the Tuesday meal. I am sure it was very tasty. I did not get to partake of that meal for I had to go out of town to pick up some goats. More on that later.

Our volunteers were Bob Cockrell and Jan Ensign, they filled out the paperwork and counted the money. Sylvia Cockrell handed out the meals to the patrons who came to pick them up at the door. We thank our cooks and we thank our volunteers for their joint efforts and service.

We have lost quite a bit of our community passing away. Many of them had suffered from cancer or many years of health issues. Let us pray for their families and loved ones during this difficult time.

Praise the Lord we got some more snow on the ground! It is not by any means like two or three feet of snow, more like maybe an inch or two, but we'll take what we can get. Some days are really beautiful and sunny, which melts the snow and gets pretty mucky. I feel good about that though for I believe the moisture is seeping into the ground. I pray that we will get enough snow intermittently to help the snow pack levels in the mountains.

So, my husband and I went to Prineville to pick up three goats. I needed some new blood to add to my little herd. I got two 5 year old nanny goats and one little 10 month old doeling. I named them Marianne, Ginger, and Elsa. My kids protested that they did not like the name Elsa. I named the little one Elsa (after Elsa from the Disney movie, "Frozen") because she has blue eyes and her coat is like a splash blue color. Don't you think that was a perfect name for her?

Well, then a friend of mine also protested against the name of Elsa, so I gave in. Her name is now Yuki. So the two nannies are Marianne and Ginger, and the little one is Yuki. Yuki is very pretty and I am hoping to get some blue-eyed babies in the fall from her.

The girls are adjusting to living on our little farm. They are pretty docile and I think they got trained after about three days to go into the goat shed for the night. The first night, the silly girls slept outside and I saw them shaking in the cold the next morning. They have collars, and I leashed them one by one and led them into the goat shed and shut the door with everyone. Yay, that makes our job easier. Hopefully, they will just go in on their own and we won't have to shut them in. I know that Frita is going to have her babies soon. I hope she does not have triplets. That would put me over the edge. Ha.
