College touts its business classes

Clatsop Community College is urging residents to "Invest in Yourself" by considering business classes.

Instructors will hold an event to introduce people to the college's business program from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14, in room 219 of the college's Columbia Hall.

"We're encouraging people to 'Invest in Themselves' by considering enrolling in one of our business programs," said Tommie Redwine, a CCC business instructor.

The kickoff will present information on the programs available and give potential students the chance to meet business instructors and alumni who have gone through the programs. Tours of the newly completed remodel of Patriot Hall are included.

"Many of our students and former business students have already benefited from taking classes at the college by gaining knowledge of how businesses operate, increasing their career opportunities," Redwine said.

The college has on-campus and online classes to fit most schedules and help with financial aid. For more information, contact the business department at 503-338-2302.
