

Pacific Power names new Clatsop regional manager

Pacific Power's Clatsop County office has a new regional business manager, one of a dozen new managers appointed throughout the company's Northwest region.

Alisa Dunlap was named regional manager for Clatsop and Lincoln counties.

Dunlap has been with Pacific Power since 2010, working in government relations where she tracked and analyzed policy issues for the company.

"My goal has been to work more closely with customers and communities," she said. "I look forward to making my home in Clatsop County, better understanding your concerns and talking with everyone about economic development, energy issues and how we can all grow together as a community."

She replaces Shelia Holden, who has been the compa-

Before joining Pacific Power, she did legislative and policy work at Oregon Health Sciences University and has a master's degree from Northeastern University in Boston. She is an avid triathlete and is involved in Astoria Regatta.

Law firm partner to work with real estate trust

Ashley Flukinger, a partner at Moberg & Rust Attorneys at Law in Seaside, will serve as a broker for Windermere Realty Trust in Gearhart.

Flukinger has a background in real estate, previously working as a broker for Totem Properties in Gearhart. She graduated cum laude from Oregon State University in 2007 then went on to receive her juris doctorate from Willamette University College of Law in 2011.

She serves as chairwoman of Sunset Park and Recreation Foundation and serves on the Clatsop Community Action Board and Helping Hands Board. She is a member of the Seaside Rotary Club and coaches seventh-grade basketball at Broadway Middle School.

Windermere Realty Trust, part of the Windermere Real Estate network, has offices in Portland, Vancouver, Lake Oswego and Gearhart. Brokers donate a portion of their commission from every transaction to the Windermere Foundation, which supports low-income children and families.

Since 1989, the foundation has contributed more than $33 million to local causes.

Morisse: Lumber company is No. 1

Morisse's extra effort included coordinating work to improve safety along Highway 26 during and after the harvest, the board wrote in announcing the award. His team also brought civic groups to the harvest site to share about forestry and stream improvements.

To encourage sound forestry, the board honors operators who consistently meet or exceed the Forest Practices Act.

Parry Lane earned the Eastern Oregon title for helping landowners after the 2015 wildfires.

Denali was named Southwest Operator for its diligent planning and harvest.

Nominees must exceed the Forest Practices Act, designed to improve Oregon's forests. Regional committees select operators of the year and merit award recipients.

The Board of Forestry will present the awards at its March 7 meeting. The Associated Oregon Loggers, the Oregon Logging Conference and the Oregon Small Woodland Association will also provide special recognition.

In 1971, Oregon enacted the Forest Practices Act, the nation's model forest management law, which focuses on forest operations and protecting natural resources. Many states followed Oregon's lead.
