think the property owners are willing to see if the concept will work.”

Emmons, who spoke during a public hearing on Spur 104, said he's eager to work with the city to learn from what's been done in the past and improve upon it.

CASUAL ELEGANCE SALON

Casual Elegance had a ribbon-cutting with new owner Chelsea Adams last Friday, Dec. 6.

The salon, at 137 S. Main Ave., was operated for nine years by Darla Kurns.

Adams, 26, had worked there for two years before purchasing the business in October.

Casual Elegance offers hair care, nails and skin care.

TRADES TRAINING

Warrenton High School's Career Technical Education building received its certificate of occupancy Tuesday, said Mark

Baldwin, whose construction company has been in charge of the project.

Teaching units can be moved if needed when the high school moves to a new multi-campus facility a decade from now, Baldwin said. It would also be easy to sell or turn over the structure to a private company if it's ever not needed for teaching programs.

CUSTOMER APPRECIATION

Darlene Warren Farmers Insurance is holding customer appreciation day from noon to 5 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 19, at 1639 S.E. Ensign Lane.
