Yearlong crime spree catches up with identity thief

A man who led police on a high-speed chase from Seaside to Astoria in 2017 has been sentenced to 57 months in federal prison for a year-long crime spree that spanned seven counties.

Garrett Pruitt-Rexroad, 29, of Culver was convicted of bilking hundreds of individuals, businesses, and communities by stealing cars, credit cards and identities.

Pruitt-Rexroad

In November 2017, he led Clatsop County officers on a high-speed pursuit along Highway 101 before crashing in Astoria.

In the car, officers found a wallet belonging to a victim, a purse with dozens of stolen credit cards and a gun. They also found methamphetamine in his front pocket.

The next month, he stole an ATM containing $10,000 from McMenamin's Gearhart Hotel.

On Oct. 7, 2019, Pruitt-Rexroad pleaded guilty to access-device fraud, aggravated identity theft, and possession of unauthorized access devices.

Last week, a federal judge ordered him to pay $55,824 in restitution when handing down the sentence.

Budget: District tightens belt

The budget is balanced – a state requirement – and “affords the flexibility demanded by these uncertain times,” Rogozinski said.

It's still unclear what classes will look like in the fall.

“Chances are very high we will start school in the fall with something other than a typical school year,” he said. “We expect some form of remote or distance learning with, perhaps, the ability to bring some students into the building at specific times. ... We're in a somewhat wait-and-see mode.”
