Unity Train comes to neighborhood near you

A grateful community can show some love to local first responders on Wednesday, June 17.

The Unity Tribute Train, organized by Spruce Up Warrenton and the Astoria-Warrenton Area Chamber of Commerce, includes a procession of fire trucks, police cars, Medix vans and more. The procession will make its way through neighborhoods in Warrenton and Hammond.

It's a way to help thank those who have been on the front lines fighting COVID-19. Residents on the route are encouraged to wave, cheer, or decorate their houses. Those driving to watch the procession can make signs or decorate their vehicles.

"The public is asked not to enter the street and not to hand anything to the procession participants," information from organizers states. "Procession participants are asked not to hand anything to the public. Please social distance. ... Masks are encouraged."

Best places to view the procession: Warrenton High School, Warrenton Soccer Fields, Hammond Marina, and Warrenton Grade School.

The event begins at 6 p.m. and leaves from the high school. It's expected to arrive at the soccer fields by 6:15, Hammond Marina by 6:45, and the grade school by 7:30. However, all the times are tentative.

No active county coronavirus cases

The Columbia Press

Clatsop County hasn't had a new case of COVID-19 in several days, County Manager Don Bohn said Wednesday night.

"We've had 46 active cases. All 46 have recovered," he told County Commissioners.

Lincoln County had a large outbreak and the county has offered some assistance there, he said. "It certainly makes us more aware of what's possible in Clatsop

Pacific Seafood's Newport processing plant had 124 employees who tested positive, it was disclosed last week. Health authorities there said the outbreak has been contained. The company paid to have all 376 workers at its five Newport facilities tested. It was the second largest workplace coronavirus outbreak in Oregon to date.

Fifteen workers at the company's Warrenton plant tested positive last month.

There also have been five cases reported at Amazon's Aumsville facility in Marion County and seven cases at Chaucer Foods, a packing plant in Washington County.

As of Wednesday, the state has had 5,060 cases of COVID-19 and 169 deaths.

Ballot error caused by mishandling of Skipanon voters

The Columbia Press

The way the county handled Skipanon Water Control District's dissolution late last year led to ballot problems in the May 19 primary, Clatsop County's election official told commissioners Wednesday.

Since it no longer existed, voters were moved out of the water district's boundaries, Tracie Krevanko said. But at the same time, "residents in the district inadvertently got moved out of commissioner Don Bohn said. "It's a com-boundaries."

The mistake affected 438 residents living in Precinct 22. They initially received incorrect ballots that didn't include the Clatsop County Commissioner District 2 race between Sarah Nebeker and John Tovooka.

The voters received new ballots by mail within five days.

"The elections process is really, fundamentally, a state process," County Manager plicated process, too."

Clatsop County has 33 precincts and there were 138 different versions of the ballot in the primary, he said.

"Part of the complication is what led to the problem we had in District 22," he said. "Voter turnout in that precinct turned out to be high because, I think, we got everyone's attention. The goal is to have a flawless election and I know that's Tracie's goal as well."

NEW! Telehealth visits

Many CMH providers now offer telehealth appointments. A telehealth visit is similar to an in-person wellness appointment with your own doctor. During the visit, you'll talk about your current health concerns and learn what to do. Your visit can take place from anywhere by computer, tablet or smartphone.

New outdoor lights rule goes into effect today

Check your lights if you live in an unincorporated area of Clatsop County.

A new ordinance on outdoor lighting goes into effect today, June 12. It requires all new and replacement outdoor light fixtures to be fully shielded and oriented in such a way that they don't cause glare on adjacent properties or rights of way.

Low-intensity ornamental lighting and holiday lights are exempt, as are lights used in support of certain industries such as farming, forestry, mining and maritime activities.
