Man who set fire to his home a murder suspect

A Seaside man who set fire to his own home before committing suicide in February is believed to have killed a Kelso resident three months earlier, the Cowlitz County Sheriff's Office reported.

Detectives say their investigation points to the following scenario: Stephen Penwarden, 69, entered the home of Rick and Rebecca Huckaby shortly after 7 p.m. Nov. 12, 2019, and shot the husband multiple times with a .32-caliber pistol.

Huckaby's wife was home at the time, but didn't recognize the shooter. She was able to help investigators with a sketch. Detectives followed numerous leads and served about 40 search warrants and subpoenas.

After setting his house on fire, Penwarden shot himself with a .32-caliber pistol using the same brand of ammunition used to shoot Rick Huckaby. He also was identified as a former friend of the couple.

Based on an investigation over the course of seven months, detectives with the Cowlitz County Sheriff's Office have identified Stephen Penwarden of Seaside, Oregon as the suspect in the murder of Kelso resident Rick Huckaby. Penwarden committed suicide on Feb. 24th.

Penwarden and his sketch

Family and neighbors considered Penwarden a loner, with the exception of his friendship with Rick Huckaby. Penwarden had stayed at the Huckaby home numerous times and the Huckabys had stayed with Penwarden at his home in Seaside.

Detectives learned Huckaby and Penwarden had been close until about six years ago, when Penwarden began to display mental problems and paranoia, according to a sheriff's press release. Penwarden reportedly blamed Huckaby for the loss of his job, his divorce and other problems and considered Huckaby to be the center of a conspiracy against him.

Penwarden's home on Columbia Street also was in foreclosure.

Detectives learned Penwarden was arrested in 2015 for assaulting teenagers with an ice pick and had numerous recent contacts with police in which he was described as irrational and quick-tempered.

Detectives submitted the pistol and a casing recovered from Penwarden's home to the Washington State Patrol Crime Laboratory for examination. This examination confirmed Penwarden's pistol had been used to kill Rick Huckaby. The pistol was purchased by Penwarden in 2008.

Further investigation revealed Penwarden had purchased gasoline at 5:45 p.m. Nov. 12, 2019, from the Warrenton Fred Meyer. The drive time from the gas station to Huckaby's home is one hour and 15 minutes.

Penwarden's Subaru Forester was similar to a vehicle seen near the murder site at the time of the shooting.

A suspect sketch bears resemblance to Penwarden and his physical description is similar to the suspect description given by Rebecca Huckaby.

Take caution if you choose to boat and drink

Marine law enforcement from 18 sheriff's offices in the state are working with the Marine Board, Oregon State Police, and five Coast Guard Stations to participate in this weekend's Operation Dry Water.

The coordinated effort over the Fourth of July holiday is part of a national effort to reduce accidents and fatalities caused by those boating under the influence of intoxicants.

"We have multiple patrols scheduled this season to catch impaired boat operators," said Randy Henry, a program manager for the Marine Board. "We also have new tools. The legislature gave us the authority in 2020 to take your boater education card for up to three years, if convicted."

Many marine officers have completed specialized training to recognize alcohol and drug impairment, including prescription drugs, that impair a person's ability to make sound judgments and safely operate a boat.

Impaired boaters will be arrested or face heavy fines. In Oregon, the consequences of being convicted of BUII include jail time, $6,250 in fines, loss of boating privileges and a one- to three-year suspension of boater education cards.

Those who see an impaired operator or someone operating in a way that threatens the safety of others should call 911.
